Fire Destroys Trailer

EAGLE RIVER: Fire last week destroyed a trailer home on the Eagle River Road.

Occupants of the trailer, Sonny and Wilma Frary and their two children escaped without injury, but were unable to save any of their belongings.

The Eagle River Improvement Fire Truck was summoned who in turn called for assistance from the Chugiak Volunteer Fire Co., who responded with two pieces of equipment; however the fire had progressed to far to save the trailer.

The ladies auxiliary of the Chugiak Volunteer Fire Co. has assumed the responsibility for the collection of clothing and other household effects for the burned (cont page 11 col 1)

LET IVAN DO IT!

The problem of Civil Defense is not exclusively an American one. The people of Russia are every bit as concerned with it as we are.

However, as an article in the August issue of Pageant points out, the Soviet Union has gone about solving the problem in an entirely different manner.

The main difference in the American and the Russian outlook seems to be the attitude of fatality with which the average American regards nuclear warfare. We all believe that such a war would spell the end of civilization as we know it, with no hope for mankind whatsoever.

The Russians, however, have been taught that survival in an atomic war is no different than survival in any other type of combat, provided that certain known procedures are followed.

In the Soviet Union Civil Defense Training in both thorough and mandatory, with no one exempt from participation.

The Russians are taught how to decontaminate food, clothing etc from radioactive dust and how to speedily clean up a fallout area.

Repeated drills in this procedure has taken most of the terror out of the prospect of an attack for them, and made panic something that they are not likely to have to contend with.

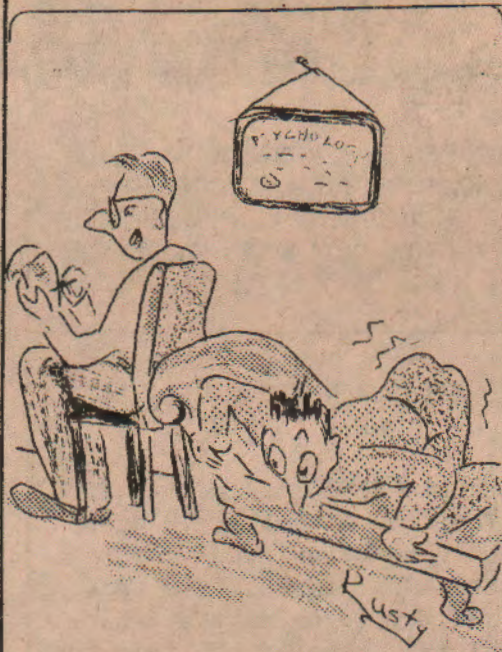

The Russians expect to lose many millions in an all out atomic war, but not nearly as many as are expected to be lost on the American side.

In the showdown of training survival, we should not be content to "let Ivan do it", but to take a page from the Russian book on Civil Defense, and face up to the facts.

If we do we may find like the Russians have, that they are not nearly as hopeless as they seemed, and that survival is merely the application of common sense and not giving way to panic.

Every American should read the Pageant article, and then wake up and keep on living.

SHOPPING IN CHUGIAK

In almost every family, there is one or more members who find it necessary to wear corrective eyeglasses of some sort or other.

For this reason, the residents of Chugiak are very fortunate to have in their midst the services of a very competent optician.

Bob Aubrey, who operates the Artic Optical Service at mile 17 1/4 is very well qualified in his line, having done this work for the army for many years.

The best part about having an optical service out here, is that his low overhead makes it possible for Bob to make glasses that are sometimes as inexpensive as half of the cost that one would have to pay in town. This at no sacrifice in quality of lense or choice of frames.

In his attractive little showroom, Bob has as wide of a selection of frame styles as can be found anywhere.

Browsing around the showroom one will find for sale many novelties, such as jeweled clips or pins with which glasses can be handily attached to ones clothing, or chains to hang them around the neck in the case of those who need to use their glasses only part of the time.

Other objects d'art which may be found here are original items of Alaskan Jewelry and souvenir items which Bob and his partner Fred Bustrum manufacture under the labels of Pierre of Chugiak, and Chief Chugiak, as well as some original Alaskan paintings.

At present, Bob is attempt-

LADIES CLUB MAKES BAZAAR PLANS

EAGLE RIVER: The Chugiak Ladies Club, meeting last Wednesday at the home of Margaret (next col.)

(ladies club)

Foltz in Eagle River, have already begun plans for their annual Christmas bazaar.

This affair, which raises funds for a college scholarship which the club sponsors is held in mid-November, and features handmade items suitable for Christmas giving or decoration.

It was decided that this year, instead of holding the bazaar in the Carnival Hall as in the past, a more centrally located spot would be selected.

The hostess raffle was won by Phyllis Stewart, a bone china cup and saucer.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Bonnie Flint on Coronado Rd. on August 23rd. at 7:30pm.

HOMEMAKERS PLEDGE TO HEALTH COUNCIL

OLD CHUGIAK: The Chugiak Homemakers, meeting at the mile 18 1/2 home of Barbara Hickman, voted to donate $25 of the proceeds of their recent bake sale to the Chugiak Health Council.

The group also has begun their current project, a hand made wardrobe for a little girl doll, which will be matched garment for garment in a custom made wardrobe for the lucky little girl who is her winner.

All clothes in both the dolls wardrobe, and that of her prospective little mother are being designed by Cledea Stephens, and will all be original fashions.

Members of the club will make the clothes.

ANCHORAGE CHAPTER OF CYSTIC FIBROSIS FOUNDATION

ANCHORAGE: Mrs. Ed. Cartmill of Birchwood has announced the first meeting of the Anchorage Chapter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Foundation to be held August 17th at 7:30pm at the home of Mrs. Jack Lee at 5706 Ladd St., Munaka Valley.

Mrs. Cartmill, whose two year old son is the victim of this little known disease stated that membership in the group was not limited to parents of afflicted children, but to anyone interested in knowing more about and in helping to find a cure to what is now considered an incurable disease.

A discription of the symptoms states that 'Cystic fibrosis does its mischief in infants and children in three ways: FIRST, it changes the mucus secretions in the lungs into a thick sticky substance, clogging the air passages and causing chronic infection, often fatally. SECOND, it produces same kind of extremely thick and sticky secretions in the pancreas, blocking the flow of vital digestive juices to the small intestine, thus seriously upsetting normal digestion and elimination. THIRD, it produces an abnormally high concentration of salt in the sweat of the patient, weakening the child and making him prone to heat prostration."

"Cystic fibrosis is the most common chronic disease of infancy and childhood.

It actually begins before birth and it is estimated that about one in every 1,000 American babies is born with the disease. Half of them die before they are five years old."

Mrs. Cartmill said that (cont page 4 col 1) to attend the next meeting to be held at the Harriman home on Saturday, August 26th at 3pm, or to call Mrs. Harriman at HO-2-5206 if they are interested, but unable to attend the meeting.

Mrs. Harriman stated that a number of Anchorage bowlers are planning to sign up for league games at the local bowling alley, and that any Chugiak bowlers who would want to reserve time should get their bids in soon.

The group is planning to reserve 8pm on Fridays for their games if that meets with the approval of the majority.

Tell it to Martha!

By: MARTHA COUNCIL

Dear Martha,

It's here again! Hunting season, I mean, and here goes my husband all ready to go BANG and fill our freezer with all kinds of weird animals.

He goes hunting every fall, and always gets his limit of everything, which we, his family are expected to get all eaten up by the next year.

Honestly, I get so hungry for the taste of beef or pork! Our kids have never tasted anything but moose or caribou. If I suggest getting something else for a change, he claims he prefers the taste of moose and never fails to point out to me all the money he saves us by hunting his own meat.

The truth of the matter is if he would figure the money he has spent on guns, bullets, hunting trips, camping gear and time off from the job, we could be eating on New York cuts all year.

What would you do Martha?hunting widow

Dear Widow,

Far be it from me to sneer at the Alaskan tradition of moose on the table; it goes on at our house too, with my blessing.

However, it should be remembered that wild game is not everyone's "cup of tea".

Besides, I think a change is on order, no matter what one is eating....even those New York Cuts would get "old hat" if you had to eat them all year.

If your husband does not want to change his diet even once in a while, buy yourself some pork chops and fix them for your lunch, while he is at work.

As for the kids; it sounds as though they don't realize they're being abused...let them have their moose, they are probably happy enough.

Sincerely,
MARTHA COUNCIL

SCOUTS ATTEND OBEDIENCE TRIALS

OLD CHUGIAK: Members of girl scout troop #54 attended the obedience training dog trials (next col.)

held at the Chugiak Carnival Grounds last Thursday.

In addition to enjoying the exhibition, the girls were able to acquire some of the credits needed for their cat and dog badge.

Among the things the girls learned were, how to teach a dog to heel, dog first aid (removal of thorns from paws) and how to properly muzzle a dog.

"MIGHTY MAC", ALASKA'S BIGGEST ATTRACTION

MT. MCKINLEY: There may not be snow in the lower reaches of "them tha hills" in summertime, but that doesn't prevent rangers at Mt. McKinley National Park, Alaska, from demonstrating Alaska dog sledging for visitors.

To the delight of thousands of viewers each season, the rangers at the Park lecture regularly for a brief period on past and present day uses (next col.)

(Mt. McKinley)

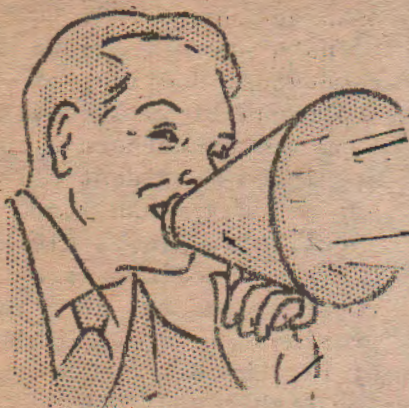

of the famed Alaska huskies. Then, following the talk, they actually hoot up a team to a sled on wheels.

Photographers have a field day as five-dog teams run a circular path thru the woods. There is no charge for the performance.

Of course, the big attraction (literally as well as figuratively) at the park is towering Mt. McKinley, highest mountain on the North American continent.

A modern comfortable hotel provides 20th Century accommodations in the midst of frontier wilderness, and is accessible by road, rail, and air.

Nearby campgrounds make the park a popular destination for do-it-yourself travelers, as well as hotel guests and the newly dedicated Eilson Information Center in the interior of the park provides not only information, but a comfortable and restful viewpoint from which to study North America's tallest peak.

that all be reminded of the meeting of the Civil Defense Team which he is attempting to organize.

Henriches has called the meeting for Thursday (tomorrow) at 8pm at the Eagle River Hardware Store. He hopes to be able to assign heads to the different departments that he is setting up.

He also asks that anyone who has failed to fill out a Civil Defense questionnaire obtain one at any of the local stores and complete it.

FREE SUBSCRIPTION WINNERS

CHUGIAK: The winners of the free subscriptions to the Knik Arm Courier are beginning to turn in their coupons.

The first one to come in was from Mrs. James L. Lake. Mrs. Lake is a subscriber to the Courier and has been a reader for three years. She says her favorite features are the editorials and news coverage, and would like to see us do a column on well known local personalities (perhaps we should revive the old "CHUGIAK VIP's" column.)

The second winner was Mrs. Jack Absetz of Old Chugiak. Mrs. Absetz, who buys her Courier at the Chugiak Post Office has been a reader for two years and likes the "Cook (next col) of the Month recipes best.

Our final winner is Mrs. Rodney L. Johnson of Sutton Alaska. Mrs. Johnson says that she has been reading the Courier for "quite some time". She buys her copy at Lorraines and likes the advertisements best (bless her!) She would like to see the Courier run a crossword puzzle.

Remember, the Courier gives away one free subscription each week.

The lucky coupon is tucked away in one of the papers, and no one, not even the editor knows which one.

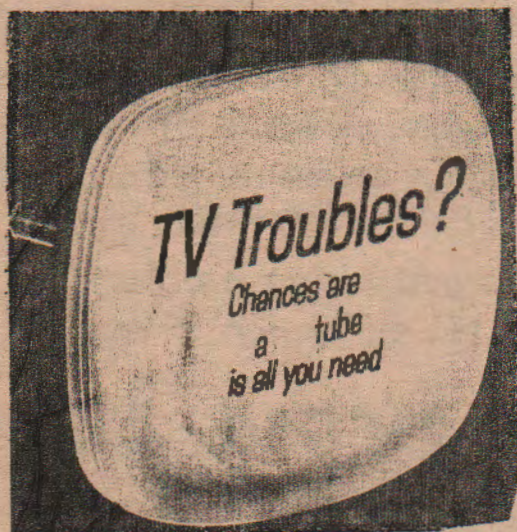

This one MAY BE IT!

CAR & TRAILER INVOLVED IN ACCIDENT

PETERS CREEK: No injuries were suffered late Sunday afternoon when a Chevrolet sedan, driven by Dan Smith of Anchorage struck the rear of a 1957 Buick driven by Jim Cobb, employee of the Ft. Richardson NCC Club as the latter was turning into Mt. Eklutna Drive at mile 23.

Smith, who was pulling a light camping trailer at the time, said that he had just pulled out to pass a car ahead of him, when Cobb, who was ahead of that car turned in front of him.

out family, and has released the following information concerning the Frary's.

Mrs. Frary wears either a size twelve or fourteen. The children are respectively a seven month old girl and a boy of around three. Frary himself is medium in build.

In addition to clothing, the Frary's need bedding, cooking equipment and any household items or furniture which could be spared.

At present they are staying with Frary's parents at mile 18, but are trying to find a place to rent.

Anyone with contributions of clothing or other items may either leave them at Zimmerman's Store at Eagle River or at the Country Kitchen Cafe at Fire Lake; or may call HO-2-5461 and someone will pick up.

The origin of the fire has not yet been determined. The Frary's carried a small amount of insurance.

CRANES NOW LEGAL GAME

JUNEAU: Of special interest to many Alaskan hunters will be the opportunity to hunt cranes for the first time.

These birds are very wary, and it is doubtful that many will be taken until hunters develop the necessary knowledge and experience to outwit these birds.

Cranes have been hunted in Mexico on a limited scale for many years, and it has been found that silhouette decoys may sometimes be used to excellent advantage.

The department of Fish and Game would like to evaluate this first crane season and it appeals to all hunters who take these birds to report their harvest, either directly to department personnel in the field or by mail to the Juneau office.

It is suggested that hunters contact the nearest office of the U.S. Weather Bureau to obtain information on sunrise and sunset times during the course of the waterfowl season.

They should also consult the (next col.)

(Cranes legal)

published Waterfowl Regulations for details concerning legal methods and means for taking waterfowl.

Persons over 16 years of age are cautioned that a Federal migratory bird stamp ("Duck Stamp") must be purchased from a post office prior to hunting waterfowl.

SHEEP HUNT SPOILED

BIRCHWOOD: Three local sheep hunters had to cut short their hunting party last week when one on the number became injured.

Frank Milliman of the Birchwood Rd suffered a severe cut above his eye from the scope of his high-powered rifle.

With Milliman at the time was his son David, and Larry Juhnke, a neighbor.

LAUNDRY NOW OPEN

EAGLE RIVER: Last minute details prevented the Eagle River (next col.)

er Laundry Center from opening last Saturday as was scheduled, however, all difficulties have been overcome and the Laundry is now open for business.

Mrs. Alva Wade LeMay, proprietor wishes to thank all those who came to wash in response to the ad for their understanding, and would like to inform them that everything is now "under-control" and the laundry is open.

LADIES ATTEND DEMO LUNCHEON

ANCHORAGE: Three Chugiak Ladies attended a recent luncheon of the Anchorage Democratic Club as the guests of the local party Chairman, George Allen.

Mrs. Gene Benito, Mrs. Kemper Johnston and Mrs. Ed Bellringer all enjoyed the luncheon, and were very interested in learning how party courses are plotted in informal settings.
