EAGLE RIVER: A State Police Patrol Car driven by a local State Trooper, rammed into a stopped car after swerving to miss a pick-up truck which had driven out of a side road without first stopping. The Trooper felt that under normal driving conditions he would have had sufficient room to recover, but the icy road caused his car to skid into a vehicle driven by Bob Mesick of Eagle River which had been stopped at the intersection of the Eagle River Road and Glenn Highway.

A Police Sgt. from Anchorage investigated the accident and the driver of the Pick up, Alonzo James Skinner of Elmendorf was cited. Damage to the 1960 station wagon belonging to Mesick was estimated at $200, damage to the patrol car at $400. The accident occurred Sunday evening. No injuries were sustained by either the Trooper, or by Mesick or his son Gary.

VICKIE JOHNSON AND SALLY HAYES, TWO LOCAL DANCERS WHO WILL PERFORM AT THE OLD FASHIONED COUNTRY DANCE AND BOX SOCIAL.

BOX SOCIAL THIS SATURDAY

EAGLE RIVER: An old fashioned Country Dance and Box Social is being held Saturday, February 10th to help raise funds for the School Athletic Fund.

A variety show with many entertaining acts is planned and dancing will be to the music of the Rhythm Kings.

Prizes are being offered for the decorated boxes in the various categories, the prettiest, the most original, the funniest and for the one which sells for the most.

There will also be a door prize of a ten dollar gift certificate.

Mrs. John Steeby, prize committee Chairman, urges all ladies to have their decorated boxes at the Eagle Gym by 7:30pm for the judging.

In addition to the decorated boxes, "bachelor plates" of food will be sold, for those who do not care to bid on boxes.

CHUGIAK: Plans to institute emergency dog control measures here by the Department of Health have been dropped following an investigation by John R. Kuhn, District Sanitarian.

In a report of Bruce D. Adams, Regional Sanitarian, Kuhn stated that he personally saw no signs of loose or roving dogs in either Chugiak or at the Eagle River School.

He felt that instead of ravaging packs of semi-wild and hungry dogs roving the area, there were instead large numbers of reasonably well-fed pets which followed the neighborhood children to school in the morning.

Kuhn felt that since this is an unincorporated area with no functioning local legal entity, laws, regulations, enforcement processes or personnel; it is his opinion that those persons concerned should first attempt correction of the dog nuisance problem through their school system, magistrates' court, state police or civil suit before any emergency public health proclamation be considered.

PTA TO MEET NEXT TUESDAY

EAGLE RIVER: The Chugiak PTA will hold their February meeting on Tuesday, February 13th at 8pm at the Eagle River School.

The program will feature the second phase of the group discussion, which was begun at the last meeting.

Plans for the School Spring Carnival will be discussed at this time, as well as further plans for raising funds to purchase athletic equipment for both of the schools.

The Cook of the Month

Life is a constant challenge to our February Cook, Louise Juhnke; and her endless search for new fields to conquer in amazing.

Louise, who came to Alaska in 1948 from Oregon has had many "firsts" since she arrived.

An encounter with a black bear, made her decide to learn to shoot a gun. She is now an expert shot.

She has taken advantage of courses at the community college to first of all obtain her high school diploma, and then to take a bookkeeping course and through their drivers training school, she obtained her driving license.

The Anchorage Spa provided an excellent place for her to learn to swim, and piano lessons were available right at home from her son Larry, who is majoring in music education at the University of Alaska.

The walls of her home are hung with some beautiful oil paintings, the product of art lessons taken some years ago.

Her latest project would seem an ambitious one. Louise is learning Morse code with the hope of becoming a ham radio operator. She is justifiably proud of a short wave radio which she has built, and as soon as she qualifies for her ham license she plans to get a complete ham rig.

The Juhnke's had lived in Anchorage until 1959, when they moved onto the homesite which they purchased in Birchwood.

A look around the yard of the Juhnke home leaves little doubt that they live on excellent terms with the wild creatures in their neighborhood. The trees around the bird feeders, and atop a high pole is a small bachelor apartment occupied by Mr. Fidgetts, a fat saucy squirrel.

In the basement of their home a family of tame mallard ducks are spending the winter, their quarters complete with their own private swimming pool.

Louise's love of wildlife is reflected in her activity with the Izaak Walton league an organization of which she and her husband Lester are long time members. Louise is a past secretary of the Anchorage chapter and compiled and edited the Hunting and Fishing guide which the League Published. She is presently helping compile a cookbook of Alaskan game recipes which the Alaska Sportsman is planning to publish and has written a number of poems several of which have been published in the 2nd and 3rd editions of the Anthology of Contemporary Alaskan Poetry.

Her hobbies seem endless, with gardening and her greenhouse to occupy her in the summer, and a collection of china and unusual glassware for the winter.

She does beautiful needle work and is presently working on handmade items to be sold at a bazaar to be held by the Relief Society of the LDS Church, an organization of which she is the Secretary.

Louise has been one of the most interesting persons we have had the pleasure to interview, and we know that we shall enjoy sharing the secrets of her kitchen for this next month.

CHANGE IN MOTOR VEHICLE LICENSE EXPIRATION DATE PROPOSED

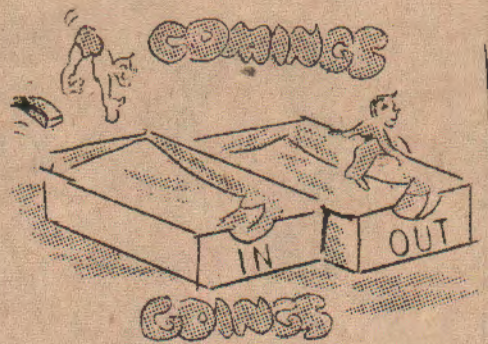

JUNEAU: Governor William A. Egan today asked the Alaska Legislature to change the expiration date of motor vehicle registrations.

Under existing law, registrations now expire December 31st of each year and new license plates must be displayed on all vehicles by February 28.

The bill transmitted to the House for introduction, would change the expiration date to March 1 and permit display of the previous year's license plates until May 31st.

Egan said the present February 28th deadline occurs at a time when substantial number of Alaska's workers are unemployed. He said the proposed bill "would lessen the financial impact on those who are without an adequate source of income during the winter months."

CHUGIAK IS FIFTEEN

By Les Fetrow

7 February 1947 the community of Chugiak was born, though it did not even have a name at that time.

Residents along the highway gathered together in the home of Paul Swanson to form a community club, whose purpose was to promote the community which was sure to grow here and to provide a social group.

Present at that first meeting were Paul and Margaret Swanson and their daughter Martha and son Steve, Cloyce and Justine Parks, Henning (Johnny) and Ruth Johnson and their daughters Gail and Sherrie, Jim and Marie McDowell and son Bruce, Simon Media and his wife Bobbie, and the latest arrivals on the highway Les and Dottie Fetrow and son Larry.

Those not present but living on the highway at the time included the owners of the old Fire Lake Lodge, the Pippels at mile 14, and the Glenn Briggs at mile 13. Dale Briggs was building his home but had not yet moved into the community.

At this first meeting the club was formed with Cloyce Parks as President. A committee was appointed to draw up by-laws for the club, which was to meet again within a month to adopt the by-laws as written. Refreshments were provided by the hosts, the Swansons.

There was no electricity in any home at that time, nor were there telephones. The only business along the highway was the old Fire Lake Lodge. Most of the homes were within the area of Mile 19. Traffic was extremely light, limited to not more than 3 cars per hour on a busy Sunday afternoon.

The Glenn Highway, more commonly known as the Palmer Highway, was hardly more than a two lane road, with gravel surface. It crossed Eagle River about half-mile upstream from its present crossing, came down what is now known as Homestead Road and wound serpent-like up Fire Lake hill, passing close to Upper Fire Lake, but not within view of Lower Fire Lake, which was concealed by the dense growth of brush.

Tell it to Martha!

By MARTHA COUNCIL

Dear Martha,

The letter you received from the youngster who signed herself trapped, sounded like a thinly disguised description of the situation at our home.

I cross examined my little darlings, but either they are innocent or are hanging together like a pack of thieves.

However, it did give me something to think about, and innocent or guilty, it could happen.

I talked the matter over with my husband, and we decided that since the letter in your column brought the subject up, we will ask your advice.

I went back to work several years ago to help us over a tough spot. Things have gotten better for us, and we could get along without my paycheck, if we had to. However, that extra money has made it possible for us to provide a lot of things which we would never be able to have if we had to live on my husbands pay alone.

I am tempted to quit, even though it would mean doing without some of the luxuries we have become accustomed to. However, your column and the possibility that it could be my children that were doing the cheating did shake me up.

Do you feel that it would be wise for me to forgo the extra income and stay home with my family?

SINCERELY,

Also Trapped

Dear Also Trapped,

Since there is considerable doubt as to whether you are the parents of the children in the earlier letter, I will not answer your letter on that basis entirely.

It is easy to fall into the trap of becoming accustomed to the luxury of a double paycheck.

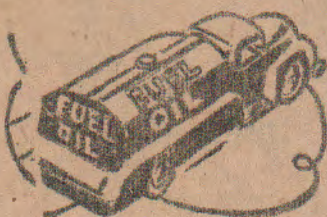

In the case of getting over a rough spot, there is little question as to whether or not the wife should pitch in if she is able. However, once the troubled times are past, and the second paycheck becomes just something to provide those extra luxuries, then it is time to weigh it against the hardship it may exert upon the young children left alone at home.

If you can manage without working I say do so, your family will be better off.

SINCERELY,

Martha Council
