GROUP MEETS TO SELECT HIGH SCHOOL SITE

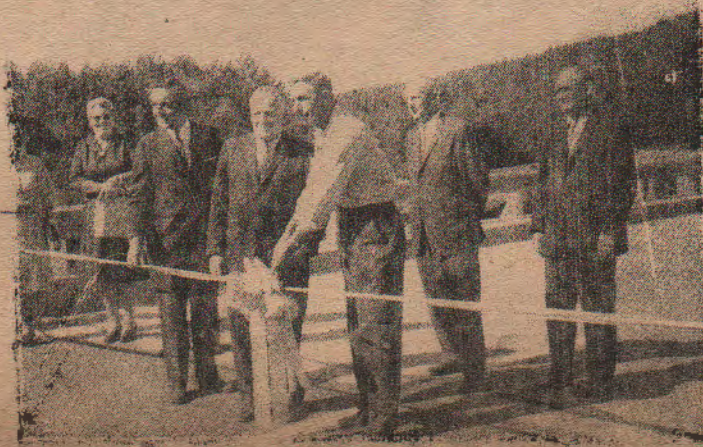

MAN INJURED BY BROKEN GLASS

ANCHORAGE: A Chugiak man suffered numerous cuts after crashing through a plate glass panel in an Anchorage Building this week.

Til Wallace of mile 18½ was running down a flight of stairs in the building in which the Roller Bearing Engineering Co. is located. At the foot of the stairs was a glass door, flanked by two plate glass panels.

Because the glass was extremely clean, Wallace mistook one of the panels for an open door, and crashed through it.

CHUGIAK: Representatives of the Department of Education met with the Chugiak Advisory School Board, Chugiak School Superintendent, and a representative of Operation Chugiak High School, to discuss the selection of a site on which the proposed Chugiak High School might be built.

The group met Monday afternoon at the Chugiak School, and inspected several of the proposed sites.

Representing the Department of Education, was John Benson and Ted Williams along with George Filler, state architect and Department of Education Supervisor Lee Hayes.

Wayne Hull and Ed Willis of the Advisory School Board and Louise

Long, representing OCHS, and Chuck Smith, Chugiak School superintendent completed the group.

The department of Education representatives outlined the items to be considered in site selection, and indicated that local recommendations would be strongly considered.

All available land will be considered before the final recommendations are to be made.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES TO MATCH BOWLING SKILL

EAGLE RIVER: The most able bowlers among the Republican Candidates for office will be awarded extra time in which to address those who attend the "Meet the Candidate" rally to be held Sunday afternoon at (cont page 9 col 3)

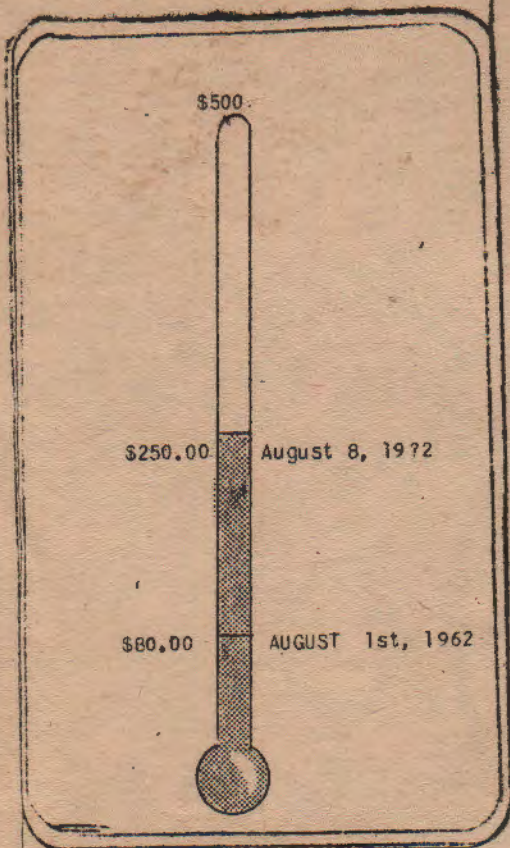

DEMO CANDIDATES TO ATTEND POTLUCK

OLD CHUGIAK: Residents of Chugiak will get the opportunity to meet and talk with all the Democratic candidates for election at the coming primary.

George Allen, chairman for the combined Chugiak and Eagle River Precincts, stated that all of the candidates have been invited to attend a pot-luck to be held at the Chugiak Carnival Saturday, August 11th beginning at 6:30pm.

Allen stated that a number of the candidates have already indicated that they plan to be present, and all will be given an opportunity to address those present.

Arrangements for food are being handled by Mrs. Bruce Robinson, Mrs. Jack Phillips

MY BOROUGH

By. Jesse E. Wooten

It will soon be time to bring symbolish into play in trying to sell the borough as proposed to the people. One of the most interesting implements of political power is symbolish.

A symbol is a visible or audible sign, which in the mind of the person seeing or hearing it, stands for an object, an idea, a process, a relationship or some other thing different from the sign itself.

The symbol serves as sort of mental shorthand. In a very simple way it may represent something that would take a thousand words to explain, and may even represent things that words can hardly explain at all.

However, since the symbol calls to mind the thing it stands for, it is possible to sway the behavior of people by symbols just as readily as by other meand.

COME TO THE FAIR

(come to the Fair)

With so many Alaskans debating whether or not to make the trip to the Seattle World's Fair, the Courier sent a reporter to the Century 21 exhibition for the purpose of returning with information and suggestions for our readers.

To begin with in answer to the question, "Is the trip worth while", the answer is definitely yes!

If it is at all possible for the reader to make the trip to Seattle (next col.)

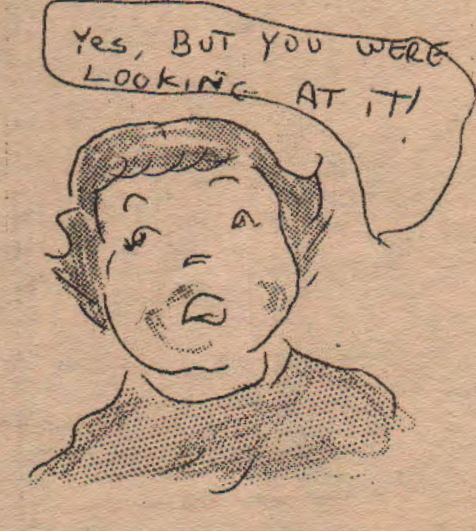

The Courier heartily recommends it.

However, we would like to make the following suggestions based on the experiences of our World's Fair reporter.

FOUR DAYS ARE THE MINIMUM time recommended to see the Fair completely. This is assuming that one spends the entire time on the Fair grounds that they are open.

ANY EXHIBIT WORTH SEEING will mean standing in line.

- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 2 cans mushrooms and broth
- 2 Tbs worchestershire sauce
- 1 tsp salt
- 1/2 sts pepper
- 4 cups cooked hot rice

ROLL meat in flour

BROWN in hot fat in large frying pan.

REMOVE meat

ADD onions, garlic and mushrooms

COOK GENTLY until onions are golden.

ADD remaining ingrediencs with exception of rice.

COOK until thickened and bubbly

RETURN meat and simmer

STIR occassionally

COOK for about 1 hour

SERVE over hot fluffy rice.

* Sunny says here is a good change from moose stew for those tougher cuts of meat.

uals for the donations they made to the dance committee.

Soft drinks were furnished by the Market Basket, T & C Liquors, Freddie's Bar, Fire Lake Lodge, Spring Creek Dodge, Allen's Grocery and Anchorage Cold Storage.

Cake Pie and Coffee were provided by Dr. and Mrs. Simpson, Eagle River Bowl Diner, Mrs. Roy Hutichison, Mrs. Ralph Hutichison, Mrs. Harold Hutichison and Mrs. Max Pyles.

Refreshment tables and coffee maker were loaned by the Chugiak Methodist Church.

Snack Tables were loaned by Mrs Paul Swanson, Mrs. Steve Lund, Mrs. Ing Tofson, Mrs. Denis Short, Mrs. Carl Pettit, Mrs "Corky" Ivie and Johnny Hutichison.

Tickets were donated by the Knik Arm Courier.

The teen-club donated the decorations and a cake decorated with the picture of an Ambulance and inscribed Chugiak Volunteer Fire Co.

In addition to the money taken in from the sale of dance tickets, ten dollars was collected from the can-nisters.

The club will hold a bake sale on August 18th.

ional anthem a symbol of devotion to country, the patriotic holiday, a symbol of national exaltation and consecration.

Imaginary figures, such as Uncle Sam and John Bull, are symbols of supposed national characteristics; the eagle, the lion, the bear, and other animals serve as symbols of national sovereignty and power; famous heroes of the past such as Washington and Lincoln, become symbols of national virtues and ideals; popular mottoes, slogans, and phrases ripen into symbols of national purpose. These are just a few examples to give you an idea of what the symbol means.

Nearly all political symbols are highly charged with emotion, hence can be mighty implements of political power. Most people obey their emotions more promptly and fully than their reasoned judgements. When confronted with a symbol of high emotional content, they are (next col.)

(my borough)

very prone to act before they think...in fact never to think at all.

Clearly then, any symbol which invokes in multitudes of people the same emotional reactions can be a tremendously proficient implement for channeling and controlling human behavior.

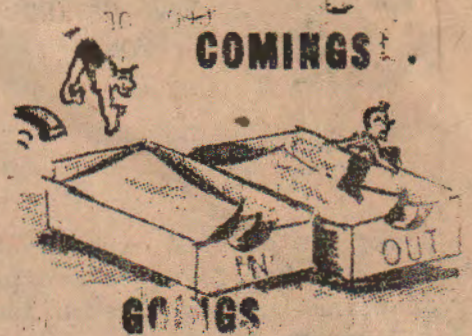

Whoever controls the apparatus of government holds the keys to power. Control of the government means control over its political organizations, its economic organizations, its family organization, its educational organization, and its organization of various other social processes.

Control of the governmental mechanism gives authority to make and administer law. And controls of the governmental mechanism gives access to the symbols by which large masses are most readily swayed.

One thing to watch for in the coming weeks is the use of symbols. Symbols will be used to lead you to believe that you will have lower taxes by having a bigger borough. Symbols will be used to lead you to believe that better schools come with bigger boroughs. Symbols will be used to lead you to believe that better roads will come with bigger boroughs.

These are just a few of the symbols to watch for. Apply a little reasoning to each one you see and hear then decide and act accordingly.

MORE CONTRIBUTIONS TO AMBULANCE FUND

CHUGIAK: Captain Ted Brinck, of the rescue division of the Chugiak Volunteer Fire Co. reported that the Ambulance Fund has now reached the half way point.

In addition to the money taken in by the Teen-Club sponsored dance, and from the cannisters which are placed in stores throughout the community, a personal contribution from Buck Smith, Chugiak School Superintendent has been received.

The vehicle is now parked outside of the Moosehorn garage, and has been loaned by the owner to the Fire Company until such time as the purchase price has been raised.

The ambulance is available for emergency use, and has already made its first run, in transporting Til Wallace back to Chugiak after his being treated at Providence Hospital from cuts received in an accident.

"I request the support of all the residents in Eagle River, Chugiak, Eklutna and in Birchwood.

Tell it to Martha!

By MARTHA COUNCI

Dear Martha,

How do you Alaskan women stand it?

I have been visiting this summer with a relative, and have been a guest in many of the homes in your community.

Everyone has been very hospitable, and friendly, and I have no complaint about the people here, but I was appalled at the conditions under which most of you live.

Not one of the homes in which I visited was finished, a person was forced to look at either bare insulation or floors without any covering. In many cases, the conditions were primitive beyond belief, I mean no inside plumbing.

...this was not because the people could not afford better; I made some discreet inquiries, and learned that most of these people earn much more than we do.

I can't understand how you all can be satisfied to put up with this sort of thing.

I will be leaving soon, and would like to I would appreciate hearing your views on the subject.

All my friends back home are interested in hearing all about Alaska, and I would like to be able to explain this to them.

Outsider

Dear Outsider,

I sincerely hope that the relative with whom you are visiting, or the neighbors with whom you also visited recognize you from your letter. I am afraid that they will not appreciate the unfavorable picture you have painted of them.

Perhaps you do not realize that most of the homes in this area are do-it-yourself projects, with the families living in the house as they work to complete it. They are limited by the amount of spare time which they have in which to work, and by the amount of money they have to spend.

When you inquired as to the income of these families, did you also think to inquire as to the cost of building materials and labor?

I hope the picture you bring to your home of Alaskan living is not as bleak as the one you painted for me.

Sincerely, Martha Counci.

You would certainly have it fixed immediately. Look around the room you're in now... doesn't the lighting look pretty much like the TV screen with its jungle of shadows and glare?

Food Expert Says:

U.S. Cooking Unmatched For Variety

The sheer diversity of American cooking can't be matched by any other country in the Western world, says Narcisse Chamberlain, daughter-partner of a famous family of food experts.

Although Narcisse looks as though she subsists on low-calorie salads and clear soups, she has gained her deep knowledge of the world's cooking by eating her way across Europe and the United States.

Miss Chamberlain

In discussing her most recent book, "The Chamberlain Sampler of American cooking," (Hastings House), co-authored by her mother, Narcisse points out that any cook but an American would consider dishes such as Texas chili, boiled beef, steak and kidney pie, cheese blintzes, butterfly shrimp, and beef Stroganoff as an international collection.

Yet they're all as American as Brown Betty or baking-powder biscuits. The recipes for these and many other classic American dishes are given in this book, which is illustrated with photographs of typically American scenes.

A major aid to American homemakers in becoming international cooks has been modern cooking methods, available in even humble homes, Miss Chamberlain explains.

With a modern electric range, an American woman can cook quickly at high heat, as the Chinese have always been forced to do by lack of fuel, or slowly at something less than a simmer, as the French housewife does on the back of an old-fashioned stove to produce an exquisite pot-au-feu.

Automatic controls on electric ranges have freed the American housewife to spend more time on other activities while a stew, for example, with a delicious international flavor cooks to perfection. On the other hand, there's nothing more typically American—or French—than a juicy, flavorful steak, rare inside, well browned outside. Here again, today's electric range with its high, even broiler heat helps even an inexperienced American woman serve a dish that compares proudly with a French chef's triumph.

AUTOMATICALLY BETTER

Accurate time controls on new electric ranges have taken the guesswork out of gastronomy, even for beginners.

NEW BRIDGE DEDICATED

EAGLE RIVER: A traditional ribbon cutting ceremony marked the opening to traffic of the new Eagle River Bridge last Wednesday at 2pm.

Welding the shears was Governor of Alaska William A. Egan, assisted by Mr. Don Tallman, representing the Contractor S.S. Mullens Inc.

Lt. Colonel Webster, USNRAL Engineering Officer represented Ft. Richardson, which bounds one side of the bridge, while Louise Long represented the community of Chugiak.

Representing the City of Anchorage was Jack White, Claire Banks and Glenn Chambers, all members of the Anchorage Chamber of Commerce.

The state division of Highways was represented by Roy Jenkins District Engineer.

Mr. Jenkins introduced the Governor, who spoke briefly on the significance of the occasion before he cut the taps.

A sizable crowd had gathered on the bridge for the ceremony.

Following the ribbon cutting, the first car to pass over the new bridge was a red Volvo sedan, driven by Roy Paulson of Eagle River.

LOCAL COUPLE TRAPPED BY CANDID CAMERA

SEATTLE: Have you ever wondered how you would react if you discovered that you were the victim of TV's Candid Camera?

A Peters Creek couple touring the Seattle World's Fair learned the answer to that question.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bellringer of Mt. Klutna Drive had stopped at the information counter to inquire where they might obtain tickets to a performance of the New York City Ballet who were the featured attraction at the Fair that week.

A young man directed them to a door marked Visitors Service. Upon entering the door, the Bellringers saw what appeared to be a topsy turvy room.

Fastened to the ceiling was a desk, a wastebasket, and a desk chair upon which was seated a young man engaged in a loud conversation with someone on the telephone.

The floor of the room was bare of any objects.

When asked as to what their immediate reaction to that scene was, the Bellringers later admitted that it was obviously some sort of a gag, and the only sensible (next col.)

(candid camera)

thing to do appeared to be to go along with it until they learned what was going on.

The man on the phone, asked them what they wanted, and pretended to carry on a conversation with the party on the other end of the phone about the ballet tickets.

When the Bellringers learned that they had been trapped by the Candid Camera in one of the several situations that had been set up at the Fair, they felt it was the highlight of their entire trip.

It was explained to them that the sequence might not be used, but if it were, they would be notified of the event and told when the sequence would be shown.

Of every eleven sequences filmed for the Candid Camera Program, only one is used they learned.

They also learned that not one of the other persons who were led into the "upside-down room" acted as though it were the least bit unusual.

POLITICAL SIGNS PROHIBITED

JUNEAU: An election year reminder that general outdoor advertising along the highways of Alaska is prohibited by state law was issued by D.A. McKinnon, Department of Highways Commissioner.

Reports of violations by political posters have been received by the Commissioner recently.

According to a 1953 amendment to the law, political advertising is included in the prohibition, which was designated to eliminate "a source of distraction to vehicle operators and persons on said highways." (next col.)

(political sighs)

The law goes on to define outdoor advertising as including "all commercial and political advertising so displayed as to distract the attention of any person operating any type of vehicle on any public highway whether such advertising be by means of printing, writing, painting, pictures, or a combination thereof, and whatever be the means of display."

It does not include advertising within incorporated towns or cities, although most communities have local laws governing this type of display, the commissioner said.

McKinnon said illegal posters and signs will be removed under direction of the State Police and the cost shall be assessed against the owner or owners of the signs or the parties who erected them.

Violations of the law are misdemeanor offenses, he said, and upon conviction carries a penalty of not less than $50 nor more than $500.

AMU STUDENTS LIKE LOUISE

ANCHORAGE: Students at the General Psychology class at Alaska Methodist University in a poll taken last week showed a marked preference for Louise Long candidate to the state House of Representatives, from the Chugiak area.

The Poll showed Louise as being fourth high out of the fourteen Democratic candidates for the house, being topped only by Earl Hillstrand, Homer Moseley, and John Rader.

One hundred and twelve ballots were given out at the poll.

Mrs. Long stated that to her knowledge she has no acquaintances among those who participated in the poll, and feels very encouraged at the trend indicated here.

The group also showed a preference for Gov. Egan and Howard W. Pollock in the Gubernatorial race.

"HOT SEAT" DISCOVERED

EKLUTNA: A report of smoke from what appeared to be a brush fire in the Eklutna Flats was investigated by Chugiak Fire Chief Art Wallace and a member of the State Police.

The report had been called by the caretaker at the Eklutna FAA station who had observed the smoke.

Investigation brought to light the front seat of an automobile which was smouldering out in the brush.

Wallace and the Trooper extinguished the fire with water back pumps.

Now they are speculating the difficulties that the driver of the car must be experiencing driving without a front seat.

CHILDREN'S SERVICE TO MARK CLOSE OF BIBLE SCHOOL

OLD CHUGIAK: A children's Service, presented by the Children of the Vacation Bible School will mark the last session of the classes.

The children will present the entire service, displaying the handicrafts they made at Vacation Bible School and reciting the songs and verses they learned.

Some of the items made by the youngsters were Clay Bibles, scrolls, salt maps and plaques.

The service will begin at 11am on Sunday, August 12th.

FAMILY CAMP AT BIRCHWOOD

BIRCHWOOD: Family camp is in progress this week at (next col.)

In some of the more popular exhibits, the line may be more than one hour in length. Remember, the longer the line, the better the exhibit usually is.

THE WAIT IN LINE WILL SEEM a lot shorter is you strike up a conversation with the person either ahead of your or behind you. You will usually find that they are extremely interested to learn that you are from Alaska, and will want to know all about our State. DON'T LEAVE YOUR HOTEL without a raincoat. It will probably rain some every day that you are at the Fair.

THE FAIR IS NO PLACE for small children. Although strollers may be rented on the grounds, we do not recommend bringing children under ten years of age to the Fair unless you arrange for a place for them to stay during most of your stay in Seattle. The part of the Fair that youngsters might enjoy can be covered in a few hours. For the remainder of the exhibits, we observed more wet, tired, bored and cranky children being dragged around by their equally tired and irritable parents. It seemed downright cruel to force these youngsters to wait in the long lines to end up at exhibits which they would not understand even if they could see past the (next col.)

(come to the fair)

see over the adults who tower around them.

IF ONE CAN POSSIBLY arrange for accommodations in any other manner we do not recommend taking advantage of the "package deals" offered by local airlines.

The accommodations are not up to the standards described, and the tickets to Fair events are usually for the second rate exhibits.

Next week the Courier will describe some of the popular exhibits at the Fair.

LESTER STEPHENS HERO OF CHAMPIONSHIP TEAM

ANCHORAGE: Lester Stephens, of Peters Creek is the hero of the Champion-Pony League Team.

Lester, a member of the Anchorage All-Stars pitched in all three of the games being credited with two wins and one save. (next col.)

STORK TALK

U/O and Mrs. Alfred Weger of Birchwood became the parents of their sixth child on Monday, August 6th.

Little Barbara Ellen, who was born at the 5040 Air Force Hospital weighed 6 lbs. ounces.

The Wegers have four boys and one other girl.

(Pony League)

The Anchorage team defeated Eilson 9-5 in the first game, Elmendorf 9-8 in the second game and in the final game, in which Lester pitched the entire game they won 25 to 2.

The Anchorage team is the State Champions.

All further Pony League Teams this season have been cancelled, and the baseball season in the State is now at an end.

OPEN LETTER FROM RALPH J. RIVERS

DEAR FELLOW ALASKANS:

No doubt you will agree with me that my first duty as your Representative in Congress is to stay on the job in Washington, D.C. until Congress adjourns in September.

As the session draws to a close and legislative pressures increase, pending matters of importance to Alaska will require my constant attention.

With this as my reason for being away from the home front during most of the primary Election campaign, I will warmly appreciate your vote when you visit the polls on Primary Election Day, August 14th.

With kindest regards and best wishes, I am

Sincerely yours, /s/ RALPH
