COMMUNITY COLLEGE COURSES OFFERED

FIRST BASKETBALL GAME AT CHUGIAK HIGH GYM SHOWS LOTS OF GOOD COURT ACTION AS MUSTANGS TANGLE WITH PALMER MOOSE.

NEW YEARS BABY TO GET GIFT SHOWER

CHUGIAK: A shower of gifts from local merchants will once again be offered to the parents of the first baby to be born after midnight of December 31st, of residents of the Greater Chugiak Area.

This is the fifth annual New Years Baby contest to be sponsored by the Knik Arm Courier.

In past years the total value of the gifts offered has been in excess of $200, and it is expected to be even greater this year.

The Courier will start the ball rolling with a $25 savings bond and a year's subscription to the Courier.

As other business establishments pledge their contributions they will be listed.

To be eligible for the contest the baby must be born to parents who reside anywhere in the Greater Chugiak Area (including Ektuna).

The baby may be born at any of the three Anchorage Hospitals, at

NO SECOND COW SEASON SEEN IN VALLEY

PALMER: There is little likelihood of a second antlerless moose season in the Matanuska Valley this year, according to Ed Bellringer, member of a research team which has been taking a biological survey of the antlerless moose killed yesterday during the one day special season in the Matanuska Valley.

According to Bellringer the goal of fifty antlerless moose which was set by the Department of Fish and Game appears to have been reached.

ANCHORAGE: Dr. Eugene Short of the Anchorage Community College, reported that the show of interest in the conducting of community college courses at Chugiak High School, would probably result in the start of these classes shortly after January 1st, 1965.

A recent survey conducted in the Greater Chugiak Area to determine which courses would be of the greatest interest, resulted in the returning of 136 of these forms with interest shown in the following courses, in the number indicated;

(Number after course indicates the number of individuals who professed an interest in that course)

Dr. Short said that since bookkeeping and typing indicate the greatest interest at this time, he is considering the wisdom of offering these courses at night during this academic year. Any courses offered would depend on finding qualified instructors who are willing to travel weekly to Chugiak in order to offer such courses.

Further information as to exactly which courses will be offered and where and when local residents may register for them will be published at a later date.

GUEST COLUMNIST

This week we are happy to welcome to the pages of the Knik Arm Courier, a guest columnist, who will be making frequent appearances with us.

Bob Fleming, will offer us his commentaries on various and sundry items, giving our readers reason to smile, ponder or even disagree, as he touches on subjects of current interest in his column "Here and There" appearing for the first time in this issue on page 4.

UNSUNG HEROS

We feel at this time that someone should pay tribute to the unsung heroes of the recent emergent, Matanuska Electric and Matanuska Telephone Associations.

While most of the residents of the area were hugging their fires and trying to go on about their business by the light of candles and gasoline lanterns, these men were working in the cold day and night trying to restore service as fast as they were able.

To Ben, Hunk and the others, we offer a sincere thanks from the Knik Arm Courier and the residents of the Greater Chugiak Area.

HERE AND THERE

In this somewhat scientific and sophisticated age, I suppose all of us are amused at occasional incongruities.

A government agency recently predicted a mild winter this year after exhaustive research which included a study of the stockpiling activities of squirrels. I wonder what the squirrels would say about their foodgathering habits. "Nuts"?

They're also wondering if Indian rain dances had anything to do with the end of the drought which has plagued certain western portions of the South 48. A few year back, a northern Arizona newspaper featured a series of articles, just prior to scheduled rain dances, that pointedly ridiculed this age-old custom. The series was conspicuously absent the day after the dances were called off after the first hour... because of rain.

And speaking of rain, I remember once telephoning the weather station in a small southern town and asking if rain were expected that afternoon. The feminine voice requested that I hold on a moment. Heel clicks were distinctly audible as the young lady apparently walked to another part of the room. When she returned, she stated very officially, "I've just looked out the window and it looks like it's going to rain."

It's a somewhat humbling experience to realize, as so many of us did, this past week, how we are still very much at the mercy of nature. When electricity is off, most of our modern inventions and conveniences become practically worthless. The younger generation, however, didn't appear to mind the snow - especially with two days off from school.

Now that the elections are over, one can read his newspaper with the pleasure of a certain relaxation that appeared to be missing during the period of candidate-lambasting. One wonders if so much criticism of the other candidate is necessary, especially the criticism which is unconstructive and tends to confuse the voter who is conscientiously attempting to decide how to cast his vote. I've never been able to understand how so many disparaging remarks can be exchanged, with cordial and friendly relations being resumed by the opponents immediately after the election. Of all the petty cliches and picayune accusations used in our recent campaign, no one (that I know of, at least) used the current and nasty British term of "political leper". Thanks!

From Bill Nye's "History of the United States": In 1884 Alaska was organized as a Territory, and after digging the snow out of Sitka, so that the governor should not take cold in his system, it was made the seat of the government.

PARENTS HELP NEEDED FOR CAREER CHOICE

PALMER:

Parents can help their growing children select careers and plan for the future, Leland Cade, district Extension agent, said this week. Career selection is one of the most important decisions that a person makes during his lifetime and as such it is an endeavor that justifies considerable study. A recent study contains a number of helpful guidelines of value to both parents and career seekers.

Nearly all young people who grow up in rural areas will work as an adult in a town or city. Within the lifetime of a 1964 high school graduate the farm population is expected to become less than one per cent of the nation.

Isolation reduces the awareness of both young people and adults to the need for education and career selection. This means that isolated families must place considerably more emphasis on career selection to be in competition with urban job seekers.

Rural youth who plan to remain rural as adults tend to discount the need for specialization (next col) and training in their chosen field. Career seekers should realize that every occupation in the future will demand specialized training in addition to experience.

Very often occupational commitment by a child to his father's occupation is the result of absence of knowledge about other occupations and based upon one alternative, rather than a decision based upon a number of alternatives.

Career selection is a long, term family endeavor with long term significance. The selection is great because there are now more than 40,000 job descriptions in the occupational field, Cade said.

READ THE LABEL FOR FIRE SAFETY

PALMER: Be a label reader and live!

This timely reminder is from Palmer District Extension agent Leland Cade.

Every year there are thousands of serious accidents and fires caused by failure to observe warnings printed on cans of flammable laquers, finishes, paint removers, thinners, mastics, cleaners and similar materials.

Before you use materials of this kind, give the label a good, careful reading. If it contains a flammable solvent, the label will carry a warning, and your own safety depends on your heeding that warning.

According to the National Fire protection Association, materials safest to use are marked "Non-combustible" or "Non-flammable." If you have a choice, use the materials marked this way.

Next in safety are materials marked "Caution! Combustible."

If the label reads "Danger! Extremely Flammable," or "Caution, Inflammable mixture," take care. These materials give off vapors which need only a touch of flame or a spark to turn them into a dangerous flash of fire.

Whenever you must work with materials of any kind labeled "flammable" or "combustible," follow these rules and be fire safe:

1. Work in a well ventilated area, preferably outside;
2. Shut off all pilots, stoves and other flame producing devices in the area;
3. Don't smoke.

ANYONE FOR PICKLES?

PALMER: Pickles and relishes contain little or no fat and except for the sweet type are low in calories. They add some nutritive value, but are most valued for the "spice" they add to meals or snacks.

Many homemakers enjoy making their own when the products are easily available.

The new 1964 bulletin, "Making Pickles and Relishes at Home" has become very popular, says Myrtle Bang, District Home Demonstration Agent. One new idea is to use a water filled plastic bag on top of the cabbage when making sauerkraut. This has the advantage of fitting snugly against the cabbage and against the side of the container and prevents exposure to air.

This bulletin is available at the Extension office.

AMU SCHOLARSHIP ANNOUNCED

ANCHORAGE:

Dr. McGinnis, president of Alaska Methodist University, has announced the gift of $300 from the Gustav Hirsch Organization, Inc. This is an annual award to AMU for use in aiding needy and worthy students to achieve a higher education.

The Gustav Hirsch Memorial Scholarship award was established at Alaska Methodist University in commemoration of Gustav Hirsch in 1959.

Gustav Hirsch was born November 4, 1876 in Columbus, Ohio and passed away on January 7, 1959. His business was world-wide in operation and included a list of blue ribbon clients in the public utility and industrial fields. Gustav Hirsch Organization, Inc. has been operating in the Alaska Air Command for many years.

The operation of the Gustav Hirsch Memorial Scholarship award is set up to operate in the most simple and direct manner. It works as follows:

(next col)

(scholarship)

1. A scholarship award of $300 is to be made annually to a worthy engineering student at Alaska Methodist University.

2. If the university does not have an engineering college, the award will be made to any worthy student.

3. The award will be made by a board designated by the President of Alaska Methodist University to a student who, in their judgment, is deserving of the award.

4. The award will be made to any worthy student regardless of race, religion or color.

5. The award will be made preferably to a student of native birth in Alaska; second choice will be a student who has completed his primary education in Alaska.

6. The sole judges of the award will be the Board designated by the president of AMU. The Gustav Hirsch Organization, Inc., or its members, will have absolutely no influence or authority in the award.

Tell it to Martha

By Martha Council

Dear Martha,

I have a friend who has a habit that drives me nuts. She is always referring to the cost of anything, or how much she may have saved by doing or not doing something.

It seems as though she knows the value of a bread crust, can tell you how much the apple on the core your child just tossed away is worth and so on, and on and on.

Isn't there something wrong with a person who thinks about money all the time like that?

Wondering

Dear Wondering,

Being obsessed with money is not a normal activity, but many people allow themselves to get that way especially someone who may have had to stretch to make ends meet at one time or another. Perhaps this what is the matter with your friend. Try to bear that in mind and not get too much annoyed with her.

Sincerely,
Martha Council

Dear Martha,

What is your opinion on hiring boys for baby sitters. It has become almost impossible to get a girl to baby sit in my neighborhood. Ever since school started all the girls are busy with dances, dates etc. and are never available to sit.

My neighbor has a teen-aged son who is a very polite well behaved boy.

She told me that he doesn't go out on dates, and would be glad to earn a little extra baby sitting money.

I suggested if my husband and he said absolutely no! He would not hear of leaving our children with a boy.

Do you see anything wrong with this?

Stuck at home

Dear Stuck,

A lot depends on a number of different things as to whether or not I would recommend a boy as a baby sitter.

To begin with, it would depend on the boy himself...how old he is, whether he has any younger brothers and sisters with whom he may have gained experience in taking care of small children.

Most important of all, it would depend on the number, age and gender of the children he would be asked to sit for.

These are things you will have to use your own judgement on.

However, I can see nothing wrong with a good reliable boy, if all other factors measure up.

Sincerely,

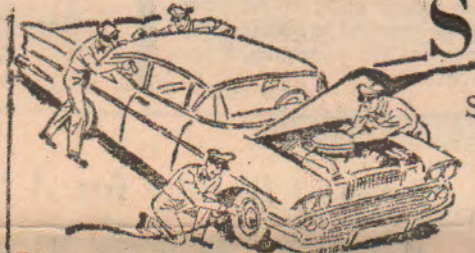

Martha Council

DON'T MINIMIZE MEASLES

NEW YORK:

The view of medical specialists that common measles can result in mental impairment and other physiological damage, and has a relatively high death rate apparently has not yet been accepted by parents.

This is the consensus among 152 science and health writers and editors, and editors concerned with women's interests, replying to a questionnaire on the subject.

The group, representing a cross-section of newspapers, syndicates and magazines, are all-but unanimous in the belief that anti-measles vaccination is largely disregarded because parents consider the disease a mere inconvenience of immunoca and not a serious health threat.

The survey of writers and editors was conducted nationally on Nov. 7 by the Medical and Pharmaceutical Information Bureau, New York, to help determine why only 25 per cent of children in the measles age are actually vaccinated. Although three anti-measles vaccines have been available for more than a year, there were 80,000 more cases of measles in the first six months of 1964 than in the same period of 1963.

Eighty per cent of the replies attribute the existing apathy to a lack of public education on the hazards of the disease.

Some science writers report that the problem is further complicated by the following: (1) the cost of inoculation; (2) resistance to the practice of giving children repeated injections; (3) doubts on the part of family doctors concerning the advisability of using vaccines now available.

Thirty-eight women's interest editors noted a scarcity of specific information on the medical complications of measles which they could not pass on to their readers.

Miss U.S.A. Sees Savings Bonds As "The Perfect Gift For All America"

Bobbi Johnson, America's gift of beauty of the 1964 Miss Universe Pageant at Miami Beach, shows how an attractive wrapping can enhance any gift. But she is quick to point out that, "with U.S. Savings Bonds you give the gift that enhances the future—no matter how you wrap it!" And Bobbi should know. Her father started her out with a bond at birth nineteen years ago, and has continued giving them to her periodically since. She herself added to her bond collection with the purchase of Savings Stamps at school, and continues her bond buying today—for herself and others. "The Christmas gift that is perfect for every American stocking is a U.S. Savings Bond," says Bobbi. "Give one to those you love this year!"
