LOCATION OF NEW DUMP ANNOUNCED

DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS ROAD GRADER ATTEMPTS TO REMOVE SOME OF THE GARBAGE ACCUMULATED ALONG THE RIGHT OF WAY AT THE BIRCHWOOD DUMP. THE DUMP WILL SOON BE CLOSED WHEN THE STATE OPENS THE NEW DUMPING AREA NEAR EAGLE RIVER.

CHUGIAK: Bruce Robinson, President of the Chuglak Benefit Association announced that the State has released a 160 acre plot of land to be used for the location of a new community dump.

This land, according to Robinson is located .8 miles south of the Eagle River Bridge on the West side of the Glenn Highway.

This land will be leased to the CBA for a twenty five year period, CBA will turn sub-letting to a private concern which will operate a sanitary fill on the premises.

At a meeting of CBA last night, it was voted to contact an attorney and have a lease drawn up.

At present, there is no road directly to the new dump, but Robinson anticipates that it should be accessible and open to the public within thirty days.

The present dump on the Birchwood Road will be closed as soon as the new area is ready, Robinson concluded.

BOROUGH ASSEMBLY ARGUES TAX PROBLEM

ANCHORAGE: At a recent session held Monday evening, the Borough Assembly approved the revised 1964-65 Anchorage Independent School budget of $4,241,665. The tax rate on real and personal property of City of Anchorage and the Anchorage Independent School District to provide the needed revenue was set at 12 mills.

The budget for the Greater Chuglak Area elementary school and the high school was approved earlier by the Assembly with an assessment of 9 mills on real and personal property.

The 1964-65 revised budget for the Borough Assessment and Collection Department of $195,451.00 was approved by the Assembly.

The assessment of all property, and the collection of taxes for the Boroughwide services of schools, assessment and collection, and planning and zoning has been taken over by the Borough Assessor.

Prior to the take over by the Borough the City of Anchorage and the Anchorage Independent School District maintained separate assessing and collecting departments. In the presentation of the budget, Assessor McKee pointed out that the $195,451.00 requested for the whole of the Borough was approximately

PRIMARY ELECTION NEXT TUESDAY

CHUGIAK: The voters of the Greater Chuglak Area will go to the polls at three separate voting precincts next Tuesday.

The Eagle River precinct will remain unchanged, with residents who live between the Eagle River Bridge and the township line at mile 15 1/2 voting at the Eagle River School.

The Chuglak voting precinct now ends at the Peters Creek bridge, with voters in that area going to cast their ballot at the Chuglak School.

The newly formed Peters Creek voting precinct includes the area between the Peters Creek bridge and the middle of the Knik River Bridge. Voters in this area will vote at the residence of Clarence Halverson. This is the large two story green and white house which formerly belonged to Jack Kennicott and is located almost directly across from the Half Way House at

To be eligible to vote in the primary election one must be a resident of the State of Alaska for one year, and of the eighth election district for thirty days.

Voters will be asked to state their party preference or may indicate that they prefer "no party". A registration card will be filled out by the election official at the time of voting.

TAX NOTICES IN THE MAIL

ANCHORAGE: Real and personal property tax notices have been mailed out by the borough Assessors office and should be in the hands of the property owners in the Greater Chuglak Area this week.

Borough Assessor Glenn McKee, acknowledges that in any "First time" appraisal of real property of a new area, inequalities will occur. These can and will be adjusted as rapidly as possible.

It is Mr. McKee's request and suggestion that property owners who, upon receipt of his tax notice, feels that his appraisal and assessment is inequitable, or unreasonable, contact his office promptly, preferably by letter. A concise statement giving the specific grievance and location of the subject property is all that is necessary.

Mr. McKee hopes with the help of his more experienced staff members to be able to re-inspect on the ground each case of contest prior to the hearings by the board of equalization, set for August 31st.

Letters should be addressed to: Greater Anchorage Area Borough Assessor have another year in Little League ball. Only eighteen eleven and twelve year olds turned out for All-Star tryouts, with three others eligible, but not showing. This means that from approximately 60 boys playing during the season, there will be over half eligible for All-Stars next year, and all of them will have two or three regular seasons of ball behind them.

A new ball park has been promised by the Lions and we hear they are planning a good one. The local league has been playing on rocks with home plates and pitcher's mounds way below par. We noted that our pitchers had considerable difficulty working from the gradually raised Plamer mound, and the fielders were lines and closely cropped grass in both the infield and the outfield.

With an earlier start next year, and the possibility that more adults with baseball experience can spend more time with the boys, coupled with the return of so many seasoned players, the Knik League may well be the team to beat in next year's

A SALUTE TO LITTLE LEAGUE

(Open letter from Lee Jordan)

After having had the pleasure of managing the Yankees throughout the Little League season and the All-Stars in the tournament, and providing reports for the Courier on the weekly games, this writer is prone to make a few musings on Little League in this area for this issue.

We felt badly about losing out to Kenai in the sudden-death tourney play at Palmer, and immediately after the game were given to mourning our own mistakes, making excuses for losing. After watching the Kenai team perform against Fort Richardson on Wednesday night, however, and seeing them hold the champs to 5 runs for 5 innings before their your pitcher tired out, we realized that were simply out-classed.

Although we were charged with eight errors in fielding, the Kenai All-Stars tagged us for 14 hits in scoring their 18 runs.

Several things can help the Knik League field a championship team next year. of the sixteen boys on the All-Star roster, only six were twelve-year olds, leaving ten who

THE COOK OF THE MONTH

The mother of four hungry little boys should inspire any woman to be a good cook, and so it with our cook for August, Pat Simpson.

This coming month we will share many delicious recipes that originate from the large sunny, kitchen from her home on Sunset B'lv'd. in Birchwood.

Pat came to Chugiak in 1957 when they moved onto their home-site. Before that they had lived in mt. View for four years.

Pat is well known to most of her neighbors, as she is the kine who plunges her self into community activity. At present although she holds no offices, she is an active member of the WSCS of the Chuglak Methodist Church and has been a charter member of the local chapter of the Alaska Crippled Children's Association.

Her husband, Jim, who has been an Alaskan resident since 1948, works at Ft. Richardson. They met in her home town in Minnesota when he had returned for a visit. They both left for Alaska shortly after they were married.

All four of the Simpson boys were born in Alaska, they are; Jimmy who is 10 1/2, Terry 8, Rusty 5 and Bobby who is only 20 months.

Pat has a number of hobby's, but enjoys growing things most of all. Her beautifully landscaped yard is proof that she possesses a "green thumb". At present she is getting started in African violet culture and is being very successful in rooting leaves.

She also knits, paints plaques and figurenes, and is a skilled amateur photography. All of these talents are of great benefit to her den of

When asked about any exciting or interesting experiences, Pat recalled the time two years ago when she and her family had been visiting in the "South 48" and the train they were traveling in was involved in a much publicized wreck. The Simpsons were fortunate enough to escape unharmed, but many were badly injured. This took place near Missula Montana.

We greatly enjoy talking with our interesting cook and shal enjoy passing on her excellent recipes.

BOOK LISTING SERVICES TO RURAL COMMUNITIES AVAILABLE

JUNEAU: Copies of a new 26 page booklet listing State and Federal services available to rural villages of Alaska are now being distributed to all village councils and schools as well as legislators and public officials whose work involves them in rural areas of the state.

The booklet, first of its kind to be published by the State, was prepared by THOR Swanson, Special Assistant to Governor William A. Egan, and illustrated by Alaskan artist Ric NMuoz.

It lists sources of information on a wide variety of subjects, including health and sanitation, welfare and insurance, employment and economic development, education, government organization, land ownership, housing and disaster relief.

Governor Egan states in the introduction to the booklet: "At the 1961 Convention of the Alaska Native Brotherhood, I stated that 'the future of Alaska lies in the undeveloped areas of the State'.

"This booklet has been written to prepare for that future. It provides information which will contribute to the development of the people of rural Alaska--the greatest resource of the undeveloped areas...."

Said Rural Development Director John Cates, of the new publication:

"This booklet serves a long-felt need for an easily available reference to all kinds of services provided in native areas under state and federal laws. The fact that some of our citizens often those with the greatest need--are not aware of the services available under already existing State and Federal programs should not be the basis for denying them these services."

The booklet will be revised from time to time as necessary to keep it current. Single copies are available free of charge to individuals who request them, by writing directly to the Rural Development Agency, Box 710 Juneau, Alaska.

The police believe that the cabin could have been robbed as long as a month ago.

Merrioums discovered the theft on July 28th at 2p.m.

THREE AREAS FEATURED IN ANCHORAGE PLANNING

JUNEAU: Three areas in or near Anchorage will be scenes of permanent centennial projects of the Anchorage Centennial Committee, according to Chairman John Urban.

Urban spelled out Anchorage plans to the executive committee of the Alaska Centennial Commission, meeting to recommend a site for a centennial center. Urban told the committee that the Anchorage plans would be realized whether a center were designated or not.

One area planned for centennial projects is the International Airport. Here will be constructed a reception center to greet the more than 900,000 persons expected to pass through in 1967. Near the airport will be established an 80 acre Alaskan animal zoo.

At Smith Park, near downtown Anchorage, will be built a civic center made up of one to three buildings. These buildings of geodesic dome construction, will house exhibits telling the story of Alaska and will provide space for conventions, exhibitions, and spectator events.

Development at the third area--near the Port of Anchorage--will relate to the marine aspects of Alaska. Also a restaurant featuring Alaskan seafoods is being considered.

Urban told the committee that non-government financing would be through a centennial Development Corporation. The city of Anchorage has agreed to match per capita grants made available by the state.

TAX NOTICES UNCALLED FOR AT LOCAL POST OFFICES

CHUGIAK: There are a great number of tax notices that were addressed to "General Delivery" that are being held at both the Chugiak and Eagle River Post Offices.

The people to whom the notices are addressed apparently do not get their mail at either of the two post offices, and are unknown to the post masters.

It has been suggested that any resident in the Greater Chugiak Area who has not yet received their tax notice call either of the two Post Offices and check to see whether theirs may be among those being held.

The Post Offices may hold uncalled for mail for only 15 days.

Little League baseball is a growing thing in this, (as in most) community. With the fine spirit of the boys and the support shown by the adults and sponsors, our second year as a separate league can only be bigger and better. It has been a pleasure to work with everyone concerned and with the promises outlined for the future it lets us add a little more optimism to the old remark, "There's always next year."

We'd like to add congratulations to the Angels, who placed first in the local league and tip our hats to the ladies of the Auxiliary for the excellent picnic on the 19th which provided good food and fun to nearly 200 people--one of the biggest and best affairs of its kind in this community.

HAMBURGER MIX
WHY NOT?

PALMER: "A Hamburger mix? Why not?", says Myrtle Bang, District Home Demonstration Agent.

There are many tempting uses for this mix. It can be baked in a ring mold and the center filled with vegetables. This mix might be used in a casserole with canned soup and cooked vegetables. It may be used on hamburger buns. This mix may be packaged and frozen. It may be stored for as long as three months.

The formula or recipe for the mix includes onions, celery, catsup, Worcestershire sauce and the ground

The recipe or formula is included in the bulleting "Good Eating With Beef." This may be secured from the Extension office in Palmer.

FOOD COSTS LESS IN THE UNITED STATES

PALMER: Food costs less in the United States than anywhere else in the world, according to Leland Cade, District Extension Agent.

This may come as a surprise to many consumers who wonder why the price of food is so high.

The real cost of any commodity is in terms of how much effort it takes to get it. The cost of food in the United States is now 19% of disposable income. Nowhere else in the world is the cost of food so low, Cade emphasized. In England, the cost of food is 30%, in Russia, 50%, and in some of the undeveloped countries of the world the cost is 80 to 85%.

The basic reason why people in the United States have such a high standard of living is because the basic necessities cost so little, which leaves a lot left over for non-essentials.

The money consumers pay the grocer doesn't necessarily represent the grocery bill. Many non-food items are purchased in the grocery store, such as hardware, cigarettes, liquor, furniture, magazines, cleaning compounds, clothing, drugs and notions.

Studies show that many items that add greatly to the dollar volume of grocery stores are not food items. Many non-food items such as cigarettes, liquor and paper goods have a greater dollar volume in grocery stores than some 9 of the common foods.

Consumers get a lot of built in maid service with their food and yet it costs less than anywhere else, Cade continued. During the past few years, many types of built in service have been added to food, including

Tell it to Martha

BY: MARTHA COUNCIL

Dear Martha,
Don't you think a girl has the right to spend her baby-sitting money anyway she feels?

My mother won't ever spend a dime for fresh fruit, even though we aren't poor. She grew up on a farm and about has a fit when she sees how much it costs at the store.

The other day I was at the store, and some peaches and stuff looked so good, I spent my own money on it.

Mom gave me a bad time and said it wasn't fair for me to be eating fruit in front of my little brother and sister when they didn't have any. I thought I could spend my own money anyway I wanted to. Will you please speak to her?

Starved

Dear Starved,

It's too bad your mother feels she must practice such false economy. Fresh fruit in season is comparatively inexpensive up here and I think every family should be permitted.

However, if you can't convince her, I see nothing wrong in your spending any money you earn yourself on an occasional sack of fruit. I do think that you should share them with your younger brother and sister, then perhaps your mother won't object to your buying them.

Sincerely,

Martha Council

P.S. You will notice that I substituted the word "fit" in the seventh line of your letter. You had better look up the meaning of the word YOU used before it causes you some embarrassment.

$360,000 less than would have been required for the assessment and collection of taxes in the City and Independent School District. The bulk of this appropriation will be supplied from the budgets of the City and Independent School District.

Four resolutions were presented for Assembly;

A resolution to place on the ballot a proposition to levy and collect a 2% sales tax for the purpose of maintaining Borough schools was tabled.

Glenn Briggs, assemblyman from Section one moved for the tabling of this resolution for the reason that it did not provide for the elimination of the personal property tax, and because no one at this time knew what revenue would be required during the coming year to support all borough-wide services. Briggs said that any sales tax would be defeated at the polls if it did not provide for automatic elimination of personal property tax.

An ordinance establishing section voting for assemblymen from outside the city, by section was tabled.

Briggs stated that while campaigning for the seat of Borough Assemblyman from Section one that he was in favor of the procedure. He added that in February he had introduced in the Assembly a resolution directed to the Legislature proposing an amendment to the original Borough Act providing for the change. The 1964 Legislature passed the amendment.

Briggs also said that he voted for this tabling action to allow for his own further consideration and a hoped for expression from the voters.

He said that at one time he had considered the requirement that a candidate canvass the voters of the six rural Sections as unnecessarily demanding both of time and money.

He is now inclined to believe, he stated, that the cost is not too great.

Briggs explained that it is the intent of the Borough ACT that Assemblymen will consider and act in the best interests of all the peoples of the Borough. Under this same philosophy the councilmen and school board members of the City and the Borough School Board members are elected at large. Candidates for the State House of Representatives run at large in their respective districts.

The Borough Act, he further stated, anticipates that better government will come from the Assembly if its assemblymen are selected on a non-partisan basis.

Briggs said that in recent months a block of rural representation has developed within the Assembly, who have as their objective the thwarting for partisan political advantage of the intent of the Borough Act. According to Briggs, such ward-system representation on the Assembly and sectionalism thinking makes impossible good Borough government as envisioned by the Borough Act.

An ordinance providing for the exemption of household effects from the personal property tax was passed.

Briggs said that he voted against this resolution for two reasons. Because a majority of the property owners of the area he represents expressed opposition to the whole of the personal property tax in favor of a sales tax to replace it as a

He said that he also opposed it for one of the same reasons that he voted against the resolution calling for a 2% sales tax i.e.; the amount of revenue required for services to be rendered must be known before tax rates can be established. The eighty-four thousand loss of revenue resulting from the elimination of household portion of personal property taxes must be made up, he said, and additional revenue provided for the support of tax assessment and collection and planning and zoning.

The total amount required must be known before the true amount of tax can be determined, he went

"It is the hope and intent of the 'Block' spearheaded by the Assemblyman from Section 3 that the elimination of personal household effects will quiet the demand for sales tax", Briggs concluded.

Tickets for the Tustumena's first commercial voyage are on sale and may be obtained from the Port of Anchorage or any travel agency.

CHILD INJURED ON TRAIN

HONOLULU ALASKA: The four and a half year old daughter of a Railroad employee was injured when she caught her finger in the door of a railroad car while traveling with her mother.

The child's father was employed at Healy, and the girl had accompanied her mother and sister to visit him over the weekend. Mrs. Bucky Collopy was returning to their home at Sheep Creek on the Alaska Railroad and had taken her children into the diner car for lunch. She was busy feeding her infant daughter when a four and a half year old Candy got up from her seat and attempted to open the door to return to the passenger car. The heavy door closed on her finger, severing it.

Diner employees administered first aid, and the child was taken off the train at Hurricane, where bush pilot Don Sheldon of Talkeetna had been summoned and flew the little girl along with her mother and sister to Anchorage for medical treatment.

The girl's father had at one time been employed at Eklutna.
