BOROUGH ASSEMBLY ASKS LEGISLATURE FOR PERMISSION TO END ALL PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX

ANCHORAGE: In a special meeting the Greater Anchorage Area Borough Assembly passed a resolution addressed to the State legislature, urging that the State law be ammended to permit the borough to eliminate all personal property tax, and to permit the adoption of a boroughwide sales tax.

At this time the assembly tabled until the next session action on a res-olution proposing that the assembly voice its support of House Bill #52, which would restrict statewide the sale of fireworks. Several of the assemblymen were not familiar with the bill and wanted time to read it.

EAGLE PIVER: The home of Mr. M. Mrs. Chester Anderson was gutted by fire Monday afternoon. Located just off the Glenn High-way, across from T&C Liquors at mile 14, the two bedroom frame house caught fire at sabout 4:30pm, and within a short time was a raging inferno. Mrs. Anderson was at home with her three children Linda 13, Damy 10, Karen 3 and a neighbor child, Pamela Schultz, who was visiting.

When she became aware the house was afire, Mrs. Anderson immed-iately started for the phone, but found her way was already blocked by smoke and heat. Getting the child-ren out of the house, she drove 11/2 miles to the Fire Station on Cor-nado Road seaking help. Meanwhile nado Road seeking help. Meanwhile, a neighbor saw the smoke and flames and called the Eagle River Volunteer Fire Company. The Fire Company, acting on the description of the size of the fire, dispatched both the Fire Truck and the tanker. "The entire rear of the tanker. "The entire rear of the house was aflame when we ar-rived," said Fire Chief Tom Take.

"The heat was intense." The fire was confined mostly to the kitchen, bathroom and one bed-room. The rest of the building, however, suffered extensive damage from heat and smote. The heat was so intense, that when water pres-sure faltered from a kink in the the inside of the house imhose, mediately re-ignited with a roar. The flash back caused no casualties, but it did force Fire Captain Claud Adams to direct his spray nozzle from a prone position for several anxious minutes to escape the flames. The Andersons had been living in the house, which belonged to Ray Coates of Eagle River for 8 months. The have lived in Alaska for one year. The major portion of their furniture, clothing and personal belongings were either depersonal belongings were either de-stroyed or so damaged they are un-usable. Mr. Anderson, who is self employed in the roofing business, salvaged business records which were, fortunately filed in a metal cabinet and safe. One of the first things Mr. Anderson removed from cabinet and safe. One of the first things Mr. Anderson removed from the building, when it was safe to enter, was what appeared to be an unrecognizable lump of burnt mat-erial. "My wife's handbag," he explained. The Andersons are staying temporarily with Mrs. Loretta French of Birchwood, who is Mrs. Anderson's sister. Plans are al-ready underway to help the And-ersons during this family em-ergency. Anyone wanting more information on what help may be need-ed can call Mrs. French at 674-8301.

HEPE AND THERE

By: R. Fleming

Some of you probably read the recent newspaper article in which a physicist was quoted as saying that the earth is now twice its or-iginal size. At first glance, such a phenomenon whould seem to have few practical aspects, but juxtaposed with the problems of our expanding population, this might be the answer. If the earth keeps expanding (and this process supposedly is contin-uous) there will be room for all the pecple of the future and we can forget all other projected remedies. On second thought, however (a little research happened here) this might not be the solution inasmuch as the world's population has in-increased six times in the last 300 years, while this two times original size growth of the earth has taken 3 1/2 million years, more or less.

(patt col)

Those who are in favor of sub-stituting a general sales tax for the income tax would be wise to offer their plan at this time of year. I know several persons, including myself, who would certainly vote for it - in fact, after becoming more and more confused while attempting to become more and more informed, Pd sanction most any sort of scheme that afforded ommission of this once a year ordeal. Never has so much been done for so little.

Do any of you have trouble in find-ing things? Especially some item that up until the time it is needed, seems to appear several times daily and, occasionally, is even in the way? I have experienced so much difficulty in locating such articles, that I make it a practice of searching for five minutes only. This habit, after a while, saves a lot of time and trouble and lends support to the old philosophy that promotes putting off until tomorrow the chorse that one should, apparently, do today. It seems, if put off long enough a low of things seem to take care of themselves. Fortunately, my young-sign is not able to read this.

of Eagle River, Mrs. Rooeri Kal-len berg of Old Chugiak, Mrs. Sonja Lavvo, Mrs. Carol Houck, Mrs. Paul Jones and Mr. Glenn Briggs, all of Eagle River. According to Miss Lundborg two locations are tentatively being considered, one located in Eagle River and the other in Birchwood. These have been offered at a nominal rental fee, which the Grant is prepared to cover. Miss Lundborg is still seeking additional suggestions for proposed locations before final com-mittments are made. In addition to paying rental and or utilities on a suitable building, the Grant will also pay the salary for the services of a part time librarian at each of the two local branches.

Miss Lundborg said that library cards issued to local residents would be honored at both of the local branches, as well at the Anchorage Public Library. There will be no fee charged for these library cards. Miss Lundborh has been exploring through the Greater Chuglak Area this past week in order to become acquainted with the community and to block over possible locations. She said that she is planning to hold another meeting with local residents sometime during the next week. Since she was not able to say which day the meeting would take place at this time, she has asked Chugiak Postmaster Paul Swanson to act as her local liaison. She will let Mr. Swanson know when she can schedule the meeting, and asks interested persons to call him for further information.

Miss Lundborg concluded that whe is anxious to get both the local branch in operation at the earliest possible date.

STATE MAY VETO GOAT CREEK'S SWITCH TO MATANUSKA-SUSITNA BOROUGH

ANCHORAGE: Glenn Briggs, Borouth Assemblyman from Section one, spoke out today on the subject of the residents of the Goat Creek Area, and their desire to become a part of the Matanuska Susitna borough.

These residents had recently petitioned that they be permitted to become a part of the afore mention-ed borough because of economic reasons ranging from schools to doctors and social ties. Briggs said that the Greater Anchto orage Area Borough Assembly had unanimously approved this petition, and so had the local boundry commission.

However, Briggs sald, in a recent news item appearing in an Anchorage newspaper, he read that the legis-lature in Juneau had reversed the decision of the borough assembly and the local boundry commission and had turned the petition down. Briggs said, that to his knowledge no one on the borough assembly or no one on the borough assembly or on the local boundry commission had received any communication confining this news item. However, he added, assuming that the inform-ation published in the Anchorage paper is correct, this would indicate that the wishes of the residents of the Coet Cruck Area and the orig the Goat Creek Area, and the opinions of the local assembly and bound-ry commission are being disregarded

Briggs is anxious to learn if the above is the case, and if so; hopes to call a meeting with the Goat Creek residents and a special meeting of the Borough Assembly to discuss the matter.

A REPORT ON THE GENERATION PROGRAM OF THE MATANUSKA ELECTRIC NRECA ANNUAL MEETING

By: James Ekstedt

As you, the readers, are undoubt-edly aware, MEA has been actively campaigning for a mine-mouth gen-eration unit at Sutton. Developments to date tend to give a very dismal outlook to the accomplish-ment of this project. These developments are:

1. The reduction of gas prices 2. The military of the second 2. The militarys controversial decision to convert from coel to gas. 3. The rising cost in coal product-ion when mined in smaller quantities.

Therefore, a meeting with the Al askan delegation at Washington D.C. AND WITH R.E.A. representatives was deemed necessary. Talks with our suspicions that the effort to retain coal as the fuel for the military bases for power generation, was ary bases for power generation, was suffering one setback after another. However, it was learned that the United Mine Workers were giving their full support to the effort to retain coal on the military bases because of the large number of miners who will be deprived of work. The R.E.A. representatives echoed this thesis also. Therefore, after meeting with various other personnel, it was apparent that whether we have a generation unit at Sutton depends on the military conversion and this is a decision which rests in the halls of Congress.

The reader will probably wonder why the conversion of the military has any connection with the mine mouth at Sutton. It is simply this: The larger the amount of coal produced, the cheaper per ton it can be sold to the customers.

The meeting at the annual convention of National Rural Electric Cooperative Associatiou (NRECA) at Miami was well attended by over eight thousand directors from all over the United States.

Prior to the convention, a seminar for directors was held for two days. I attended the institute 1B on The Dev-elopment of Better Understanding of the Total Job of a Director. Some of the courses were: 1. What is modern management? Management Functions of the Board of Directors. 3. PManagement Functions of the Manager. 4. Practical Guides of Developing Board Policies.

What should Directors expect from the annual Audit, These and many other aspects of Board action were conducted by very able teachers from a leading management service institute.

However, the greatest benefit received in my opinion, was the assoc-iation with the other thirty two directors in the course and discussing with them our problems and theirs. There were board members from Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Mis-sissippi, Fairbanks and Kenai Alaska, Nebraska, Oregon, Indiana and Nevada.

The 23rd Annual Meeting was highlighted by many excellent speakers. (next col)

These and many other speakers and commercial displays and panel discussions made this a very memorable convention.

One came away feeling that the cooperative movement is able to adjust to our changing time and that we must widen our horizons beyond the mere distribution of power to support the economical growth of our area, and be the leaders in the ex-portation of talent to electrify Africa and South America through the cooperative idea.

Tell it to Martha By Martha Council 6.3

Dear Martha,

I need you to tell me what to do about this neighbor of mine. She isn't a close friend, and I have never done anything to encourage her friendship. But she has the habit of coming over whenever she knows we have company.

As soon as she sees a car in our drive here she comes. She usually uses some weak kneed excuse for coming over. Mostly it's to use our phone. Then she just stays, joins into our conversation, and if I am serving refreshments, she usually manages to get in on that. I've tried everyting short of being out and out rude to let her know that she isn't welcome, but she just doesn't take the hint.

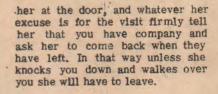

I am getting awfully tired of it, and I wish I could get rid of her.

Can you tell me a nice way to tell her to stay home.

Unfriendly neighbor

Dear Unfriendly neighbor, Nopel sorry but there is no nice way to tell off a pest like this. Now that you have let her get her foot in your door, I'm afrald you will have to be blunt about it. You say you've tried everyting short of rudness, so it looks that's what is left. what is left.

The next time she comes charging over when you have company meet

Sincerely, Martha Council
