Fire Damages Eagle River Home

EAGLE RIVER: A fire which broke out on Saturday afternoon at the home of Jeanette Beatty in Echo Street in Eagle River, caused a minimum amount of damage before it was extinguished by the Eagle River Volunteer Fire Company.

Mrs. Beatty's son Bill, had turned off their space heater and sprayed approximately 1/4 can of "Soot Off" into the fire pot. He then turned on the oil and lit the stove.

The metal flu leading from the stove to the chimney apparently became overheated and ignited a kitchen mop which happened to be leaning against it. This in turn set fire to the wood paneling of the walls and the fire traveled from there to the attic of the house.

Mrs. Beatty called the police who in turn notified the fire company who responded.

The fire broke out at approximately 2:10pm on February 20th.

ANCHORAGE: Chuglak's own champion lady dog musher, Shirley Gavin of Peters Creek, drove her team in last Monday to take second place in the Women's Championship Sled Dog Races.

Shirley came in third place on Sunday in the first heat behind Sheri Wright and Natalie Norris, with a time of 36.57.

On the second day, she passed up Natalie Norris to duplicate her own time of the day before (a first in local racing circles) and came in second, and in second place over all with a total time of 1 hour 13 minutes and 54 seconds.

Shirley raced eight dogs the first day and dropped one to race a seven dog team on the final day.

Shirley differs from the two other top lady mushers (Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Norris) in that the latter are wives of long time dog mushers, and each raced her husbands team.

Shirley trains her own dogs, and is the only musher in her family. The only time her husband has ever attempted to race was in the annual Cheechako race last year at Eagle River, at which time he raced his wife's team.

Shirley has a stable of ten dogs, and runs them every other day, either at the Eagle River course, or along the MEA pole line behind her home. She will hook up her trailer, load her dogs, put her sled on top of her car and take off for the races at anytime.

She competed in all of the preliminary races this year and finished in the top ten in each one.

She sometime hopes to have a large enough team to compete in the World's Championship Sled Dog Race held each year at the Fur Rendezvous.

This is her fourth year to compete in the Women's Championship finishing fifth two years ago, third last year, and leaving only first place to go in 1966.

Shirley was one of seven women competing in this years race, on a ten mile course run in two separate heats. Her prize for second place was $250.

Shirley lives just off "Four Wheel Drive" in Peters Creek with her husband Myron and three children, Micheal 13, Gall 10 and Michelle 5.

Her son Michael shows signs of following in his mothers footsteps, having won second place in the three dog race at the Willow Winter Carnival earlier this month.

HERE AND THERE
By: R. Fleming

South Vietnam, about the size of the state of Washington, is bordered on the east and south by the South China Sea, on the west, by Cambodia. Laos is on the north except for the narrow strip connecting with North Vietnam.

The history of Vietnam goes back some 5,000 years, and is chronicled by a thousand years' rule by China and the many subsequent rebellions. The country was split into north and south sections in the 16th century and again in the 17th century. For several reasons, presumably pretexts, France undertook to conquer Vietnam in the 1840's, achieving total control in 1858.

Japan occupied Vietnam in 1940 receiving cooperation of the French Vichy government. Prior to the Japanese defeat of World War II, the Japanese eliminated French administration and (this sound odd today) permitted the Vietnamese to proclaim their independence.

Meanwhile, Communists, with the leadership of Ho Chi Minh (the current president of North Vietnam) succeeded in getting nationalists groups exiled from China to form the Viet Minh. The Viet Minh, with the support of Allied nations, waged anti-Japanese guerilla activities, and was able to take control of the north before the Chinese army of occupation entered in 1945.

The French were able to re-establish themselves in the south, and in 1946 recognized the northern regime of Ho Chi Minh. France promised complete independence for Vietnam with the French Union, but war broke out between the French and Viet Minh government in 1945. As a result, France lost her position in Vietnam.

According to the Conference of Geneva in 1954, north and south were to be reunified by elections in 1956. However, South Vietnam President Ngo Dinh Diem (who may be remembered as the husband of Madam Ngo Dinh Diem) would not accept the provisions of the Geneva Agreements. In 1958, the Communist leaders of North Vietnam decided to take over South Vietnam by force.

Largely, if not solely, through the efforts of the United States, South Vietnam continues her struggle to retain her identity as a separate, anti-communistic government.

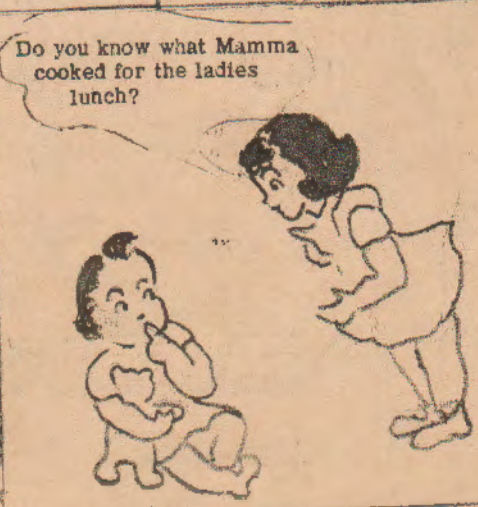

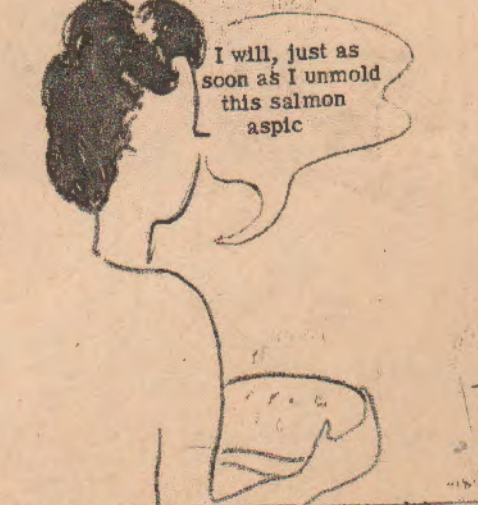

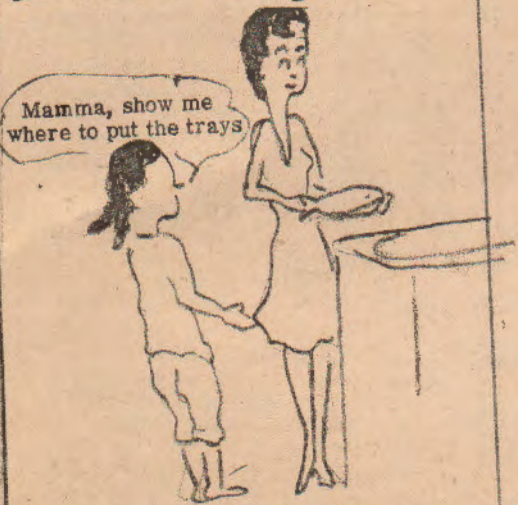

Current reports, not only confusing in themselves, tend to confuse the whole issue of what we are doing and more important in the long view, what are the South Vietnamese doing among themselves. Even though we know that freedom comes dear, it is discouraging to learn of American casualties and disheartening that the South Vietnamese cannot cooperate sufficiently long among themselves for one to learn the correct pronunciation of the name of their latest leader.

BLUE AND GOLD BANQUET

CHUGIAK: Final arrangements have been made for all den mothers who want to set their tables at an earlier time to do so anything after 7:00pm on Thursday, February 25th.

Although the banquet is slated to begin PROMPTLY AT 7:00pm, it is suggested that all concerned plan to come early as each Cub Derby and have one trial run before the Banquet begins.

Considering that each Derby has two heats at least before a winner out of every four cars can be determined, it will take considerable time for 42 entries to compete in the Pineewood Derby Races. Therefore the Banquet must start on time, and if at all possible, even earlier.

With awards and other things on the program agenda, it is advisable for everyone to make a special effort to come early to the Banquet.

BIDS TO BE ASKED TO REPLACE EKLUTNA DAM

WASHINGTON DC: The Bureau of Reclamation expects to issue an invitation later this month for bids to replace the Eklutna Dam.

The President's budget for the 1966 fiscal year includes $1,170,000 for a new dam and related facilities to replace the earthquake damaged dam purchased from a private source at the time the federal government built the Eklutna tunnel and power plant.

Senator Bartlett was advised that the funds for the contract will come from emergency money available to the Bureau of Reclamation to be repaid from the appropriation being sought in the President's budget.

The new dam, downstream, will be of earth and rock, about 40 feet high and 800 feet long with intake and spillway facilities.

CLASSROOM REPORTS

GRADE 2A: We made a February weather calendar for our room. We are making booklets about the Policeman.

We saw a filmstrip about "Winter at Oak Tree."

We wrote stories and poems about winter in Alaska. We made them up. Sarah showed us how to make carbon copies by scribbling on the back of a picture and then tracing the picture.

We had a valenting party. We played games and had fun. We learned about our five senses; hearing, tasting, seeing, smelling and feeling. We have been learning new and better words to use in our stories and poems.

Cheryl Thomas shared her book Growing up. Sharon Martin had a birthday on Abraham Lincoln's birthday.

We are learning to do arithmetic a different way. Kenda Huling brought in a clam shell for us to see.

We enjoyed seeing the story and picture made by two second graders of Nunaka Valley School.

Ricky Bearden wrote a story in Morse code. Kevin Matlock brought in a rock that smelled as though it had oil in it.

REPORTERS: Kevin Matlock and Jeanne Absetz

GRADE 3A: The Mustangs, Baracudas and the Thunderbirds are the three teams in the Arithmetic class competing to see which team makes the fewest mistakes in adding and subtracting 125 problems with two place numbers this week. The Thunderbirds won again this week.

Next week they will renumber for different teams.

FREE VALENTINES

If I could own the little shop
That sells sweet valentines,
Pd hang them up, one after one;
Like washing on long lines.
Then Pd sit up, the whole night through

And look at them, and try
To think exactly who'd be pleased
With every one, and why.
When daylight rolled around
once more,
Pd have the greatest fun,
Just giving valentines away --
Not selling even one!

WHERE

Where's my cup, little pup?
It is it on the floor?
Or behind the door?
Is it under a chair?

I have looked everywhere.

GRADE 4A: Yesterday class 4A had a Social Studies Test. The teacher said that everyone passed it. Loyd Hutson was the only one that got a 100.

In Alaskan History we are putting in the important rivers, mountain ranges and lakes on our map.

On our apple tree, Coralyn Banks and Ed Samuleson got a worm. When you get 10 brown spots Margaret or Jean takes them off and puts on a white worm. This is for late work. Each assignment not in at the deadline gets the mark.

In arithmetic we are studying adding and subtracting money.

These are the children that are on the Honor Roll in our room: Margaret Absetz, Loyd Hutson, Jean LaCau, and Bob Prather.

During the past decade the average annual salary of all public school instructional staff members increased nationally by more than 65 per cent.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 24th, 1965

In the third quarter, the Mustangs scored close to the Eagles for a 27-61 third quarter score.

In the final quarter, the Mustangs were again outscored, this time 12-31, for a 92-39 final score.

Scorers for the Mustangs were Bob Mielkd 7, Dan Push 10, Richard Doggett 1, Harvey Pullen 3, Dan Werre 6, and varsity substitutes Calvin Werre 4 and Sam SWintersteen 2.

This was the last game of the season for the Mustang JayVee. This was quite an accomplishment for starting out with "Junior High" players (no player on the JayVee has played anything higher than Jr. High) and turning them into good team-working JayVee players.

JayVee Mustang Coach Dick Kerbow has done an excellent job of this.

Tell it to Martha

By Martha Council

Dear Martha,

I want you to tell me what you think of this woman. I belong to a club that meets at the members homes.

Last month we decided that whenever one of us is the hostess, she will give a demonstration in some art that she is talented in.

One of us knits, another textile paints and so on. This has been lots of fun, and we have all benefited from it.

That is, I should say it was fun up until the last meeting. This member does lovely cake decorating, and we were all looking forward to learning how to do it.

When we all got to her house, she said that she had talked to her husband about it, and he told her that she had to pay to take lessons to learn to decorate cakes, and that he felt that if she was going to give lessons, she should charge for it.

We were dumbfounded, and could not think of a thing to say.

It ended up with her asking us to think it over, and the meeting breaking up early, with no demonstration.

Now the rest of us don't know what to do. We didn't charge for our demonstrations, and I know some of us had to pay at one time or other to learn our skill. Should we forget the whole project, tell her that we aren't interested in learning cake decorating or what?

Dear Stumped,

Your friend should have realized that when your group agreed to exchange skills that it was not to be on a paid basis.

If she felt that her talents were on a professional basis she should have asked not to participate, not wait until you were captives in her home and then embarrass you all by demanding payment.

Her excuse that her husband instructed her to say this sounds fishy to me...most husbands could care less about what goes on at a women's meeting.

I say, drop her from your group if you can, in any event, tell her that you have decided to forget the cake decorating. By the way, has she offered to pay anyone for lessons in knitting, painting etc?

Sincerely,
Martha Council

Reminiscent of the old days, ceremonies marked the opening of a new railroad into the Northwest Territory in Canada.
