CHUGIAK TEACHER PERMANENTLY DISABLED
AS RESULT OF ACCIDENT

EDMINTON: Word from the University Hospital in Edminton Alberta, is that Miss Trudi Souder, Chugiak Grade School teacher, who was in-volved in an accident near Haines last week, will be permanently disabled as a result of her injuries.
Miss Souder suffered a broken neck and a possible broken back when she was thrown from her car. Miss Souder had been in Boulder ing back to her home in Boulder Miss Souder had been driving back to her home in Boulder Colorado, and was hurrying to try to make the ferry when a wheel went off the road and onto the soft gravel of the shoulder. She lost control of the car, and was thrown clear of the vehicle which rolled over and over and was badly wreck-

> REMINDER OF PHONE CHANGE

ANCHORAGE: Local residents are reminded that the change over of Anchorage Phone system to all numeral dialing will effect local phoning proceedures.

Beginning on the cut-over date of June 19th, Anchorage may be called from the Greater Chugiak Area by dialing the number which appears in the new phone book directly. Also, it will be possible to call either of the local exchanges from Anchorage by direct dialing.
In the past it was necessary to dial an ACS operator and ask for the number to be called.

This convenience will be slightly spoiled by the fact that local residents will lose the privelege of calling either Fort Richardson or Elmendorf Air Force Base toll free.

As of the cut-over date, it will be necessary to dial Long Distance (110) to call either of the two military bases. The toll charge for these calls will be forth cents for the first three minutes for station calls with a ten cent charge for each additional minute, or eighty cents for the first three minutes for person to person calls with ten cents for each additional min-(cont page 6 coi 2)

Unfortmately, it requires no prophetic vision to predict there will be others before this year is finished. Are you or your family members to be he victoms? Does this sound norbid? A thousand traffic deaths week is just naturally morbid! "ut who cares.

HERE AND THERE By, R. Fleming

A thousand parsons a week are being in car accidents. Who cares?
Really, it is sometime difficult to believe that anyone cares. In a very real sense, most of our automovile accidents are caused by the driver — not the weather, nor road conditions, not mechanical failure—just the driver. Until the driver develops a conscience, we'll mow them down by the thousands every year. Who cares?

Many studies and surveys have been made and are being made.

Many studies and surveys have been made and are being made. All of them are of some value, but mainly these efforts tell what happened: car crossed the center line, excess speed, following too close, and so on. What the studies haven't yet made clear is why did the driver veer too much to his left or to his right, go to sleep at the wheel, fail to apply brakes within a safe margin, yield the right of way. We know, of course, that drivers become sleepy, that they overdrive, that there is but the missing element is why drivers allow themselves to reach these dangerous conditions.

My personal belief, for a long time, has been that the basic ingredient of sare driving is proper attitude - call it a driving philosophy, if you like. Knowledge of road conditions, weather factors, laws, mechanical capabilities may improve one's driving and are of tably important, but there is no gurantee that such knowledge will make a sare driver.

For example, our speed limits in

For example, our speed limits in our area are pretty close to the safe limits. Yet, many drivers habitually exceed the speed limits by many miles per hour.

Miles per hour.

An accident is bad, and becomes tragic when there is injury or fatality. It is more tragic when the victims, as so often is the case, are actually victims of someone else's careless driving. And this means that as long as there is a single driver with the wrong attitude, there will be accidents.

WOOD PRESERVERS ADD LIFE

PALMEF: Alaskans can add life to wooden homes and other buildings by using suitable wood preservers, Leland Cads, district Extension Agent, said this week.

A number of chemicals are recommended for dry and green limber, poles and posts.

Penta is the best treatment for dry wood. Chromated zinc chiorids, copper sulphate and others can be used for green wood.

A bulletin on the topic entitled "Preserving Wood for Alaska's Farms and Homes' ' is available at the Extension office.

It was authored by Ivan Branton, of the Alaska Agricultural Experiment Station at Palmer.

Since wood preserving chemicals are poisonours, caution must be exercised in their use.

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON By: Ralph J. Rivers MC

The U.S. Depart-WASHINGTON: ment of State informs me that the Executive Branch "warmly supports a proposed lease of laud northeast of Fairbanks to the European Space Research Organization, assuming that arrangements satisfactory to the State of Alaska can be worked assuming out. ESRO, a non-commercial space research organization, desires to construct a sattelite telemetry command station at this site.

An estimated $44 million would be spend in fiscal 1966 for military construction in Alaska undar an authorization bill adopted by voice vote in the House of Representatives this week. Major expenditures would go for construction at Adak, Elmendorf and Eilson Air Force bases, Barrow and for an Army pipeline between Whittier and Anchroage. Other expenditures would be a second to the second transfer of the second transf go for construction at 24 other sites in the state.

.I am hopeful of committee action this month on a bill I have intro-duced to promote the modernization and expansion of our domestic merchant marien and fishing fleet. Unchant marien and fishing fleet. Under this legislation, also sponsored by Senator Bartlett in the Senate, vessel owners would be able to contract with the Government to put certain of their income into a fund in exchange for deferment of taxes thereon, with the right to later withdraw such deposit for use in purchasing new vessels.

Tell it to Hartha

By Martha Council

Dear Martina, My crouble is with an inconsiderat neighbor.

When school got out, I looked forward to being able to sleep in mornings.

My husband gets his own break-fast, and I keep the kids up late at night so they will also sleep in. My neighbor has to get up at crack of dawn and thinks anyone who is still in hed at 10:00am is sinful.

She lets her kids come over to play with mine, even though I have let her know that we sleep late at our house.

Almost every morning, they are banging at our door, wanting my children to come out and play with them.

How can I put a stop to this?

Night Owl

Dear Night Owl,
I don't think anyone who sleeps until 10:00am is sinful, but I do think calling that "the crack of dawn" is stretching the point.
I envy you, and don't begrudge you the extra shut-eye at all. If you prefer to spend the shank of the day in bed, and can train your children to go along with it, more power to you.
Tell your neighbor again, in no uncertain terms that you don't want to be disturbed before a certain time, and if her children bother you again, ignore their knocking. They will soon learn that it is a waste of time to expect your children to come out before lunch and stop bothering you,

Sincerely, Martha Council
