BREAK-IN AT CHUGIAK SCHOOL

OLD CHUGIAK: A break-in which took place over the weekend at the Chuglak Elementary School, appeared to have the finesse of a professional burglar.

Both buildings were apparently entered, and a total of $100 in cash and savings stamps were missing.

The break in appeared to have taken place sometime between the hours of 7pm on Sunday evening and Monday morning. Mr. Emerson Sortore, school principal, said that there were teachers working in the main building during the hours of 3:00pm until 5:00pm on Sunday, and nothing unusual was noted at this time.

Window latches in both of the buildings were found broken, and it was assumed that this is how the buildings were entered.

The money stolen was funds belonging to the school district and some to the PTA. Locked cabinets and a metal safe had been pried open as well as desk drawers.

Mr. Sortore said that it was his opinion that the burglar was not a child as in one instance some cash had been stored in a desk drawer and this was not taken. The only other items that appeared to be missing other than money or cash redeemable stamps was some butter and milk from a refrigerator in the school lunch room kitchen.

The break-in was discovered Monday morning by Mr. Sawyer, school custodian, and Mrs. Lee, manager of the lunch room.

Other items which tended to point away from the thought that it might be the act of a juvenile, was the fact that there was no evidence of vandalism, or any exterior damage to the building, other than broken locks. The State Police are investigating.

BIRTH DEFECTS QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

HOW ARE DISEASES INHERITED?

In every one of our cells there is a special substance which is actually coded chemically for each individual somewhat like the tape in an electronic computer. This "code of life" chemical is called DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid). It determines all inherited characteristics of man and of other forms of life as well. The code is carried from generation to generation through hereditary units called genes. Genes are "packaged" in the structural form known as chromosomes. Each person receives from his parents and passes along to his children several thousand genes, some of which lead to normal traits, others to abnormal ones.

DO BAD GENES ALWAYS CAUSE DISEASES?

No. In some instances a bad gene from one parent has to be paired with a similar bad gene from the other to cause trouble to the child. Other times harmful genes won't cause trouble unless some particular thing happens to the baby while it is developing in the mother's body, or unless some change or disturbance occurs later in life to trigger its negative effects. At least one hereditary disease, Huntington's chorea, may not appear until 60 years of age.

WHEN IS A BIRTH DEFECT SERIOUS?

Generally speaking, a serious birth defect is one which is fatal or shortens life, causes disfigurement, or results in a physical or mental handicap.

HOW ABOUT MENTAL RETARDATION?

Frequently a birth defect. Mental retardation is a symptom with numerous causes. Birth defects cause a very significant percentage of cases of mental retardation. At least 30 body chemistry birth defects are now known to result in mental deficiency. In some of these, the damage can be prevented if the conditions are diagnosed early and treated properly. PKU is one of them. Other commonly known examples of retardation due to birth defects are Down's syndrome (mongolism) and hydrocephalus.

CAN BIRTH DEFECTS BE PREVENTED?

To some extent, yes. Certain inherited diseases can be prevented by avoiding pregnancy when the risk is too high. Family histories can alert the physician to some inheritable defects (PKU, for example) thus preparing him to diagnose them in early infancy when treatment can prevent injurious effects. Much of the brain damage caused by both PKU and a disease called galactosemia (in which the body can't handle sugars found in milk) can be prevented by special diets if the diseases are detected and treatment started in early infancy. Two effective detection tests for PKU have been developed. Similar advances in other such diseases are hoped for. Blood tests to determine Rh-factor type can alert the physician to potential trouble. If a vaccine for German measles can be perfected soon, birth defects caused by that disease will become preventable.

Little Midge

Are all your fish going to have babies, Sissy?

I can't tell about some of them, because they're egg layers.

Don't all fish lay eggs?

Not the Guppy, She's a live-bearer.

Say, Billy, did you know that some of Sissy's fish lay eggs?

But not the Guppy, because she's a librarian.

Seconds later, as the Bagoy vehicle was blocking the road with no lights, a third car, a 1961 Corvair sedan driven by Edna L. Czeriski of Cornado Road in Eagle River came along and crashed into Bagoy's car.

Damage to Mrs. Gardner's car was estimated at $1,500. The Bagoy vehicle was damaged in the front end and on the right side to the extent of an estimated $1,200. The Corvair sustained only minor damage, an estimated $50.

No citations were given.

Dillingham to Anchorage International Airport, where some will be taken to the Eagle River plant for filleting and other processing and some flown direct to the markets in New York and Chicago.

Ekstedt said that as far as he has been able to determine this is the first time commercial fishing of Alaskan fresh water fish has been undertaken on a large scale.

During the first week they expect to process around 3,000 pounds of fish, this to be increased to a maximum of 20,000 pounds. Fishing will begin sometime around the last part of January. Teams of fishermen will be employed to catch the fish, and an auxiliary plant at the lake site is being established.

Ekstedt said this fish will be marketed as fresh Alaskan white fish and lake trout and will be a premium item on the market.

He concluded that this project will undoubtedly create jobs for additional personnell at the Eagle River plant, as well as at the plant near Dillingham.

Allen, but had returned to the village and had been seen in the cabin earlier that morning.

Alex said that he discovered the fire, and called the State Police who notified the Chugiak Volunteer Fire Company.

The Chugiak Company responded with the ambulance, and as their truck was out of commission, called the Eagle River Volunteer Fire Company under the mutual aid agreement.

When the Eagle River fire truck arrived, the cabin was completely involved, and all they could do was keep the blaze from spreading to other homes in the village.

Alex, said that he found the remains of a dog in the ash and what appeared to be human remains. Mrs. Ezi had a son Peter living in Anchorage, and a estranged husband Peter Sr. of Eklutna.

The fire broke out about 4:45am on Tuesday, and was believed to have been caused by an overheated stove.

RURAL 30 DISSATISFIED WITH MERGER BILL

ANCHORAGE: Representatives of Rural 30, who attended the public hearing on the City-Borough merger plan, feel that the proposed legislation still lacks many of the safeguards they deem necessary to protect the interests of the rural areas.

Ed Willis, Chairman of Rural 30, and Borough Assemblyman from Section one, said that although the City-Borough Study group had followed the suggestion of Rural 30 that areas both within the city and those outside the city must approve the merger, however he felt that as a whole the bill was too loosely written.

He said there was no provision for the protection of the Borough Sections and that the law must be more specific in telling how assets and liabilities are to be taken care of.

He said it was the feeling of Rural 30 representatives that the time for Public Hearings was before the Study Group met to draw up the bill.

He added that he felt that the present laws were adequate to handle local government problems and that any additional legislation at this time is unnecessary.

BLUE MONDAY FOR MATANUSKA ELECTRIC

CHUGIAK: It was "Blue Monday" for the MEA repair crews in the Greater Chugiak Area.

Trees and lines unloading themselves of snow, ice and frost caused two extensive power outages that morning.

One outage which involved most of the residents on the Birchwood Loop took place early in the morning and lasted until almost noon. The linemen were at work repairing that outage when they got word of a second outage which effected residents and business establishments from Easy Street in Eagle River to Peters Creek. Since this second outage took most of the business establishments along the highway, as well as the Chugiak Elementary School, it was given priority over the earlier power failure, and was repaired first.

This second outage was caused by a line being burned in two at approximately mile 14 1/2.

In addition to these, there were numerous individual outages as transformers on poles kicked out.

The local telephone system also was overloaded due the the flood of calls from residents without power, adding to the problems of the day.

NEW TAX SERVICE OPEN IN EAGLE RIVER

EAGLE RIVER: A new business which has opened up at mile 14 1/2, Glenn Highway, should prove a boon to local residents within the next three months.

The EAGLE RIVER INCOME TAX SERVICE, stands ready to help out with the distasteful job that everyone faces this time of year.

Operated by James Price, and Glen Hellums, both graduates of the H. and R. Block Income Tax School, are opening their office tomorrow, Thursday January 19th across from Harry's Auto Parts Store in Eagle River.

These gentlemen are trained in preparing income tax returns for individuals as well as for businesses and cooperations.

In addition to preparing complete returns, Mr. Price and Mr. Hellums are offering to answer questions and offer information to the public at no charge.

Having one's income tax figured by someone trained in the H. and R. Block method can save dollars as well as time and effort, and Mr. Price and Mr. Hellums urge local residents to drop in and discuss their tax problems with them.
