

TWO MORE ADULT COURSES OFFERED AT CHS

THE MASCOT OF THE CHUGIAK MUSTANGS CAVORTS IN THE SCHOOL GYM BEFORE THE GAME, AS THE KODIAK BASKETBALL TEAM WARMS UP

BIRCHWOOD: Word has been received of two additional adult courses being offered at Chugiak High School. A course in Basic Clothing Construction is being taught by Judy Thompson, Home Economics teacher, and a course in Oil Painting, instructed by Miss Jeri West, Arts and Crafts teacher. Both these courses are held on Wednesdays from 7:00pm until 11:00pm. The tuition fee in each case is $36. Anyone wishing to register may either call the High School, or register in person on class night.

CHUGIAK: Local residents were startled last Wednesday, at the sight of military helicopters flying down the highway at treetop level. It was learned that they were attempting to blow the accumulation of frost and snow from the ACS lines. The Courier was unable to learn whether there was any connection between this action and the fact that shortly after the lines were dusted the ACS circuits between Anchorage and the local phone exchanges were inoperative and remained so for the next three days.

MUSTANGS STAMPEDE BEARS SATURDAY

BIRCHWOOD: It was Chugiak all the way last Saturday night as the Mustangs went out to win their first home game of the season. Following a 62-51 defeat at the hands of the Kodiak Bears on Friday, the Mustangs turned the tables and defeated Kodiak with a 68-57 final score. Chugiak took the lead early in the game and led all the way until the end of the third quarter, when Kodiak gave them a bad moment by tying the score at 47-47. However, with Jim Kohring playing his best game of the season, and backed up by Harvey Pullin and Steve Willis, the Mustangs pulled ahead, and won with a spectacular last second field goal, sunk by Harvey Pullen. (cont page 8 col 1)

EYE CLINIC CONTINUES THIS SATURDAY

CHUGIAK: The Amblyopia Eye Clinic will be held for one more Saturday, according to a spokesman for the Chugiak Health Council. This free clinic, tests pre school children for Amblyopia, an eye defect which can cause blindness in one eye if not detected at an early age. The two clinics are held from 10am until 3pm on Saturday, February 4th. The location of the clinics will be the Eagle River Baptist Church, on Eagle River Road, and Our Redeemer Lutheran Church at mile 19 1/2, Siena Highway. There is no charge for these tests, and all parents of pre-school children are urged to have them tested.

MARCH OF DIMES APPEARS SUCCESSFUL

CHUGIAK: The local 1967 March of Dimes has all appearances of being highly successful, according to local Chairman Natalie Brooks. Mrs. Brooks announced that a total of $60 has been turned in from the Silver Tea held last Friday by Mrs. Harry Mackey, and that $450 has been collected to date from the Marching Mothers. She said that there still some mothers who have not yet turned in their funds, and that the March of Dimes canisters have yet to be collected. The final results of the March will be published as soon as all monies have been turned in.

SWIMMING POOLS FOR ALASKAN KIDS

(Excerpts from the remarks of Senator Ernest Gruening at Opening of Alaska Centennial Ceremonies at Juneau High School Jan 31 1967)

"We are beginning to change that state of mind, but have quite a way to go, and should firmly vow in this centennial year to adopt as Alaskan policy that we should be satisfied with nothing less than the equivalent of what is best in the older States.

"A current illustration is our lag in the lack of indoor swimming pools in our high schools. A gymnasium has been considered good enough for Alaskan school children. 'Down below' swimming pools have become standard equipment in high schools. Yet in Alaska they are more essential first, because our winter are long, cold in the interior, rainy along the coast, limiting outdoor recreation for your youngsters during long Alaskan winter months, while an indoor swimming pool furnishes healthful exercises, recreation and morale building--materially enhancing life for the generation that should concern us above all, our children, the future citizens. Second, swimming pools are needed because a greater proportion of Alaskans live by and off the sea; every year witnesses some tragic and needless deaths when someone falls off a boat or a dock, and for inability to swim a few strokes, drowns.

"I will confess that for some twenty years since the construction of new high schools which followed the increase in Alaska's population after World War II, I have sought to interest school district boards in this project and urged them to include an indoor swimming pool in the school plan. Some rejected the idea out of hand as a needless luxury; others agreed and included them in their school design, but in two such instances, in Ketchikan and Kodiak, sharply rising costs between planning and construction made appropriated funds insufficient and out went the swimming pool.

I regret to say that in Juneau the voters rejected the project. Twenty-five years ago the people of Anchorage similarly voted to reject a gymnasium in their high school, but that wouldn't happen there now. However, it is gratifying to report--as a happy centennial item--that one Alaska city, Sitka, has completed its plans for what will be the first high school swimming pool in Alaska and that it will be ready for use early this Spring. This exhibition of civic spirit is all the more notable in that Sitka, last January, suffered a devastating fire which destroyed a large part of its business district, as well as the Russian Cathedral and the Lutheran Church, restoration of which has imposed a further financial burden. The Sitka swimming pool, incidentally, is an illustration of the desirable civic leadership to which allusion was made earlier. I hope it will serve as an example to other Alaskan communities."

Daddy, can I have pair of skis like Sissy?

I think we can manage it, Midge.

Joe Johnson said he had a pair that Billy has outgrown, maybe he'll sell them.

Hey, Sissy, see my new skis!

Heck they're not new...those are Billy's old skis. They're second hand.

They are not.

...but I guess they might be second foot.

LADIES CLUB HEAR ARTIST

ANCHORAGE: The Chnglak Ladies Club took part in a field trip last Thursday to the studio of Joan Kickbus, well known Anchorage Artist.

Mrs. Kickbush, told the club of her background in the field of commercial art, and demonstrated some painting techniques.

The club has been consulting with a number of well known artists in order to obtain ideas for the art show they are sponsoring at Chuglak High School next May.

The next regular meeting of the club will be on Thursday, February 9th, at the home of Katie Phillips in the Lazy Mountain Trailer Court.

ENTRY BLANKS READY FOR ART SHOW

CHUGIAK: Entry blanks for the Chugiak Centennial Art Show are now available, according to Co-chairmen, Margaret Mielke and Helen Savageau.

The show is scheduled for the weekend of May 5th, 6th, and 7th at Chugiak High School.

The show is open to all Alaskan artists, with artists from the Greater Chugiak Area especially encouraged to participate.

Any local artists interested may receive letters of information and an entry blank by either calling one of the chairmen or by writing to the Chugiak Ladies Club at box 515, Chugiak, Alaska.

There will be audience judging of the show, and separate categories for adult artists and high school students.

This show is being sponsored by the Chugiak Ladies Club, and is the first show of its kind to be held in the Greater Chugiak Area.

ALASKA ROAD FUNDS TO DECREASE

JUNEAU: Warren C. Gonnason, Commissioner of Highways, announced today that Alaska's Federal Aid matching ratio has been revised.

The Bureau of Public Roads informed Commissioner Gonnason that Alaska's share of road building funds has been increased from 5.09% to 5.82% and the Federal share reduced from 94.91% to 94.18%.

The new ratio does not affect the apportionment of Federal funds to Alaska, but it increases the amount of funds that the State must pay on each project.

The matching ratio reduction results from the effect of State withdrawal of Federally held lands. Federal legislation provides for a 50-50 matching ratio for all states on the ABC (Primary, Secondary, and Urgan) apportionments with the provision that states with excessive Federal lands will receive a higher ratio to compensate for the lack of private development. The ratio is reviewed each year and adjusted for each state as required.

SOLDIERS DEMONSTRATE STEEL BAND AT SCHOOLS

ANCHORAGE: Six young soldiers from Puerto Rico will be featured performers this week as the Anchorage Area Cultural Arts Week.

The six men, who are known professionally as "Frankie and the Riverstones," are members of a uniquely Caribbean musical organization called a steel band.

Their instruments are cut-down and finely tuned 50-gallon oil drums.

The steel band, which is regarded as one of the musical organizations currently performing in the Anchorage area, has been selected to perform on the school district's half-hour television program, "Today's Classroom" at 2p.m., February 1st, on KTVA (Channel 11).

It will also make guest appearances at Eagle River, Chester Valley, Creekside Park, Scenic Park and Fairview Elementary Schools during the January 30 - February 3 observance of Cultural Arts Week.

According to Mrs. Frances Vadla, and Charles Reynolds, musical coordinators of the observance, approximately fifty individuals and groups of artists and musicians have accepted invitation to lecture or perform at borough schools during Cultural Arts Week.

The leader of the steel band group, Ercan Viera, said steel bands such as his are fairly common in Puerto Rico, but here in the 49th state "Frankie and the Riverstones" are the only steel band in existence, even though Alaska is overstocked with steel barrels which the Puerto Rican could convert to drums.

Viera, a Specialist 4 assigned to the 1st Battalion (Mechanized), 60th Infantry, 172nd Infantry Brigade, said he and his fellow musicians accomplished the precision tuning of their instruments with the use of only a hammer and a chisel.

"The first step is to pound the top of each barrel into a dome shape, but the low point in the top must be in the exact center," he explained. "Then a punch must be used to indent the top to produce the various tones. The drums are then played with small sticks tipped with rubber balls."

Members of the band include Luis Crus of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, Cuco Santos, Angel Venegas and Jose Valles of Company B, and Frank Perez of Company C. All are assigned to the same battalion as their leader, Viera.

SPORTSMEN TO MEET TO APPROVE BY-LAWS

EAGLE RIVER: The Sportsmen's Game Preservation Association will have its monthly meeting on February 6th, at 8:00pm at the Chugiak VFW Hall at mile 13 1/2 Glenn Highway.

A film pertaining to big game will be shown by Darrell Farnen, registered guide.

The board has been meeting weekly for the writing of by-laws. These will be presented for approval by the membership of the association at the February meeting.

Mr. Loren Croxton, of the Alaska State Department of Fish and Game met with the board on January 24th for the purpose of familiarizing them with the correct procedures for closing an area to big game hunting. All interested persons are invited to attend the February meeting.

SKIS ALTERNATE BETWEEN CHUGIAK AND EAGLE RIVER

Eagle River Elementary students will be given the chance to learn, develop and perfect their skiing skills. At the present time Eagle River has eleven pairs of skis. This is not enough to carry on an adequate program, consequently they will combine their skis with the ones belonging to Chugiak Elementary School, since Chugiak has twenty pairs of skis, this will make eleven pairs, enough for a good sized program. The two schools will then alternate each week with the combined skis.

Mr. Hayes, the Eagle River Principal, said that Mr. Juila, a physical education co-ordinator from Anchorage Borough School District is coming out to give some advanced instructions to the students. It is hoped that towards the end of the year, the students might do some racing and master some difficult turns.

MOBILE ART SHOW HITS THE ROAD

JUNEAU: When the 62 foot, light blue and yellow mobile gallery housing the Centennial Art Exhibit completes a year's tour of Alaska in December, thousands of Alaskans and tourists will have viewed the art collection.

Today, the long circuit began as the trailer left on the State Ferry vessel, the Matanuska, for Skagway where the art exhibit will run for about a week. It will then continue on through the Southeast to Haines, Juneau for a layover, Sitka Petersburg, Wrangell, Ketchikan Metlakatla.

For three days in February, while the mobile art gallery is temporarily in Juneau awaiting ferry passage to Sitka, 50 percent of the Centennial Art exhibit, which is sponsored by the Alaska State purchase Centennial Commission and Alaskan Arts and Crafts Inc., will be packed in sturdy crates and sent to Whitehorse, Y.T., on the White Pass Railroad for a short showing.

During a similar layover in Seattle in April, the entire exhibit will be moved to the Civic Center and shown for one week there. It will then be repacked in the trailer and carried by one of the vessels of the Alaska Steamship Co. to Seward.

In late May and early June, the mobile gallery will be visiting cities in the Kenai Peninsula. In July, the collection will be shown in Anchorage at Alaska Methodist University and moved on to Fairbanks by the Alaska Railroad where it will be shown at the A-67 Exposition Site.

Throughout the fall of the year selected items in the show will be crated and flown by Alaska Airlines, Wien Air Alaska, and Northern Consolidated to Fort Yukon, Kotzebue, Nome, Gambell, and Bethel for small showings in these towns. The air service will be provided free of charge. When the year is over, the show will have traveled to 29 exhibit places.

Inside the mobile gallery, almost every bit of available wall space is used to display photographs, prints, both abstract and traditional oil paintings, and some sculptures in a colorful array. Small ceramic pieces, jewelry, and delicate sculptures are placed behind plexiglass in an exhibition case. Others are placed on small pedestals throughout the gallery. Carvings in soapstone of a whale and a bear are near modern woodblock prints.

Ceramic bottles made from Cook Inlet clay are arranged only a few steps from a large, abstract oil painting. All represents the art being done by Alaska's artists today.

The large, red cedar carving decorating the outside of the trailer was designed by the Chilkat Indians of Indian Arts and Crafts in Port Chilkoot, under the direction of Carl Helmiller.

The trailer itself was built especially for the art exhibit by the Penny Trailer Sales of Anchorage. "This represents a $16,000 investment in our show," says Sharron Lobaugh, chairman of the Centennial Art Exhibit. The Company is lending the trailer to Alaskan Arts and Crafts Inc. for one year.

Other valuable contributions in service were from Morgan Drive-away, Seattle, who transported the trailer free of charge from the factory in Boise, Idaho to Seattle before it arrived in Alaska; Alaska Steamship Co. and the Alaska Marine Highway System, who are transporting the exhibit free of charge; Aurora Trucking Co. and Alaska Coastal Airlines who are moving the exhibit in the Southeastern Cities in connection with the Steamship Co. and ferry system, Felton and Tenney and Hoover's Movers who will furnish vans to pull the trailer in the Kenai area, and the Alaska

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

I know that it is inconvenient! I know that it uses too much time and besides, it is only a short ride to the store! These are both a few of the excuses that you and I have used in the past for not using our seat belts each time we drive an automobile.

If I can impress one person the value of enduring this inconvenience of using a seat belt, and thereby save a life, I will have considered this letter worth its weight in gold. While a seat belt does not replace cautious driving or murderous, inadequate, death-trap highways, they can prevent death or injuries in many cases and many instances.

My daughter Toi and I urge you to install and use automobile seat belts for the benefit of yourself and your family.

Sincerely,

Senator Brad Phillips

"Why do I buy U.S. Savings Bonds? One reason is because I figured it was time to stop talking about protecting our way of life and do something about it! Like our guys in Vietnam are doing, with the help of my Bond dollars.

"Then, of course, there's the fact that Savings Bonds are a great place to put away money for emergencies, for retirement—for anything. They're as good as Uncle Sam and that's plenty good enough for me.

"There's something mighty right about buying a Bond. You'll get that feeling, too."
