BOBBY FLEMING, (left) GRAND CHAMPION OF THE WINTER FUN CARNIVAL AND STEVE UHER, RESERVE CHAMPION. BOTH BOYS ARE WINNERS OF PREVIOUS YEARS, UHER 1968 AND FLEMING, 1967. TROPHIES WERE DONATED BY THE KNIK ARM COURIER. BY WAY OF COINCIDENCE, BOTH OF THE WINNERS ARE CARRIERS FOR THE KNIK ARM COURIER.

BIRCHWOOD: A movie on Civil Defense, which was viewed by the Birchwood Elementary School PTA at their January 20th meeting, has sparked that organization into a drive to petition the GAAE to incorporate fallout shelters into the building plans of any new schools, additions or facilities.

The PTA passed a resolution favoring the construction of these shelters in all new buildings, and also to have existing facilities checked to determine where such protection can be provided at a reasonable cost. According to the office of Civil Defense, the necessary features of fallout protection can be incorporated into the design of new schools or additions at little or no additional cost, the resolution points out. Copies of this resolution have been sent to members of the School Board, School Superintendent Carlisle Kramer, state senators and others.

The PTA has also drawn up a petition, copies of which are being circulated throughout the community. The petition asks the School Board to include in the building of new schools and additions, facilities that can be used for fallout shelters in the event of man-made or natural disasters for the protection of the children and people of the community.

Copies of this petition have been placed in business establishments throughout the community for the convenience of those who wish to sign them. Anyone needing additional information may call Mrs. Wilkings at 688-2429.

An alarming statistic which was learned from the Department of Civil Defense Education, University of Alaska, was that in the City of Anchorage, only two schools are licensed and stocked shelters. West High (1113 spaces) and Clark Jr. High (123 spaces). Moreover, only two public shelters, the Eklutna Power Plant (725 spaces) and the Eklutna Tunnel (50 spaces), exist between Clark Jr. High and the city of Fairbanks.

OPAG NEWS

By: Pat Sherman, Community Aide for OPAG

Two ladies from our Older Person's Action Group have been in the hospital recently. Mrs. Anna Watts, our Anchorage office secretary, has been very ill, but is coming along nicely, we are told. We were very happy to learn that a local member, Florette Patker, is out of the hospital and recuperating at home. A big "Get Well Soon" is extended to both of you from all of us.

Saturday, March first is a date for all OPAG members to keep in mind. On that day we will be bussed into Palmer for a get together with other OPAG members. A little bird told me that we may have a banjo player along to keep us in tune during our melodious sing-a-long. If you do not have a phone, and need transportation to the pick-up points, please call us. We will all wait for the bus at Peg Tissingtons or Pat Sherman's. If you have your own transportation, we will meet you at our homes. We will do our best to contact all of you and have you picked up by the time the bus arrives in Chugiak at 1:00pm.

We are in need of a couple of stand-by drivers to transport the elderly, and make house calls with your OPAG aide. All drivers are paid fifteen cents per mile, and must be safe, experienced winter drivers. Those who wish to apply may call Pat Sherman.

Due to a budget cut in travel expenses we have had to revise our transportation services. All trips must be scheduled through this office, 688-2210. Arrangements have been made to set aside certain days for those who need transportation for Doctors appointments and grocery shopping. All low income families in the fifty five or older age group are eligible to use this service. All other members are urged to take part in the social functions, and meetings.

The following schedule is set up for your convenience. If possible, make morning appointments to avoid making the day in Anchorage too long and tiring for everyone who must use this means of transportation.

TUESDAYS will be set aside for doctors appointments in Anchorage. The doctors who were contacted will cooperate in making appointments for this day.

THURSDAYS will be for grocery shopping in Eagle River. These trips will also be scheduled for mornings in order to give your aide a driver for her afternoon house calls. FRIDAY from 10:00am to 1pm is ladies beauty shop day.

Until our regular barber returns, the mens haircutting day will be Saturday at 1pm.

This Friday, February 14th, we will be bussed into Anchorage for the OPAG meeting. You will be contacted for pick-up time. These meetings are your means of gaining services for the elderly. Your vote is needed, and is very important to the program, so please attend.

For appointments for transportation, call Pat Sherman, at 688-2210.

MARY ROWLEY RETIRES

JUNEAU: A serious fall from a chair while reaching for a book high on an office shelf, fractured six ribs of Public Health Nurse Mary E. Rowley of the Alaska Department of Health and Welfare. This was followed by a coronary attack with cardiac arrest. That hardly slowed her down, but another attack last July forced the plucky nurse to retire.

Mis Rowley is fondly remembered by Chugiak Area residents as the public health nurse who served here ten years ago.

Before leaving Alaska the "Sourdough" Lady received a letter of commendation, a service award and a certificate of award for her 17 (CONT PAGE 6 COL 1)

ANCHORAGE: The annual Sweetheart Ball of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority was held in the ballroom of the Anchorage Westward Hotel, Saturday evening, February 8, 1969.

Sweethearts from each of the eleven chapters in the Anchorage area were presented.

Mrs. Ada Stephens, Omicron Sweetheart, was radiant in a lovely red gown trimmed in silver. She was escorted by her husband, Melvin.

Approximately fifty local members, escorts, and friends from the Omicron chapter attended.

Prior to the ball, the local chapter enjoyed a no-host cocktail hour at the Top-of-the-World and following the ball, a midnight supper was held.

Proceeds from the ball support the Beta Sigma Phi scholarship fund. The sorority awards four scholarships annually. One is to a graduating senior girl from each of the Anchorage area four high schools.

IMPROVEMENTS AT HATCHERY

FIRE LAKE: The Department of Fish and Game's Fire Lake Fish Hatchery is undergoing a complete modernization and is expected to be able to produce trout, salmon and grayling fry and fingerling at more than double the present capacity by 1970.

A $3222,800 contract for the hatchery building aspects of the modern facility was recently awarded to Western Construction Company of Anchorage. It calls for completion by August 1st, 1969.

The completely modernized facility incorporates a new water recirculating and treatment concept which was developed at the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife Abernathy Creek Experimental Station near Vancouver, Washington. Alaska will be one of the first states to put this technical breakthrough into use at a fish hatching and rearing station.

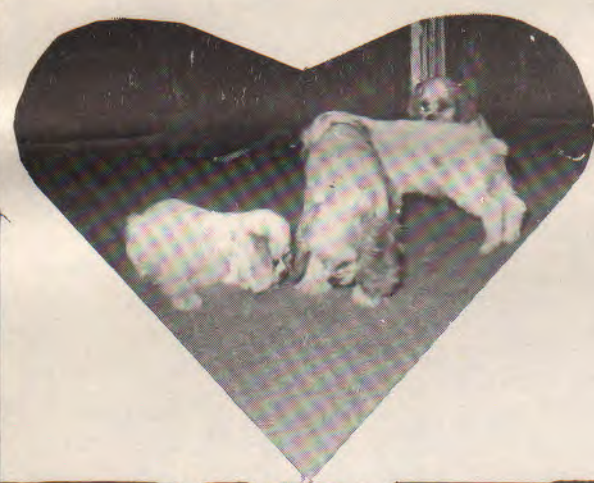

The system will allow for the control of water temperature to maintain the most desirable range for artificial salmonid rearing, generally about 55 deg. F.

The natural water temperature in Cook Inlet drainage range from freezing to about 75 deg. F., too low at one end and too high at the other. At the lower temperatures the fish and egg growth and development are very slow. At the high end (above about 65 deg. F) the fish "break", as fish culturists say. They soon stop feeding and are very susceptible to disease. Under natural conditions the fish attempt to find cooler water often moving deep in a lake, for example.

A complex system of water treatment and reuse allows for the temperature adjustment and control. Water is taken in from the water supply line coming from Upper Fire Lake, mechanically filtered to remove physical impurities, sterilized, and then recirculated within the hatchery, obtaining heat, where needed from the equivalent of an oversize hot water heating system. After a period, the recirculated water builds up a load of unacceptable waste products from the fish's metabolism. A series of biological filters using crushed shells, coupled with aspirators, remove the wastes from the water. Periodically, the filters are back-flushed to rid the recirculating system of the accumulation. The sterilization feature keeps down the incidence of disease and parasites. An automatic feeding system will insure that adequate food for fast growth is available.

The end result will be a nearly three fold increase in the production of fry and fingerling with the added advantage of adjusting production to make the fish available at the most favorable time.
