FEDERAL AGENTS INVESTIGATE EXPLOSIVE THEFT

EAGLE RIVER: Federal agents are investigating a break-in at the storage bunker of Machine and Drill Steel Co. of Anchorage at the Eagle River Powder Magazine.

According to a spokesman for the Alaska State Troopers the theft of explosives is a federal offense.

The bunker was broken into sometime on July 21st or 22nd. Entry was gained by a vent in the ceiling of the bunker.

An unknown quantity of dynamite and prima cord was removed from the bunker.

Authorities are inclined to think this was the work of juveniles, or someone unfamiliar with explosives; as evidence showed that an attempt had been made to set fire to the dynamite and prima cord.

If they had been successful it could have resulted in their being killed, or at best blinded or maimed.

EAGLE RIVER: The Greater Anchorage Area Borough has established a branch office in the Greater Chugiak Area, with the first department to locate being the Department of Environmental Quality.

The office will be located temporarily in the GOAL Center on Artillery Road. Mr. Hugh Burner of the Department of Environmental Quality will be in charge of this office.

This is one of the Borough Departments which would have been housed in the Community Center which was to have been established in Eagle River.

The Community Center project was shot down when no bank would lend the money to finance the project.

Local Borough Assemblyman Ed Willis stated that the community center project is still very much alive. He is working on a package whereby the Community Center will appear on the ballot at next October's election. He said the plan will be very carefully formulated in order to avoid all the pitfalls which caused the original plan

It was believed that this was more an act of vandalism, rather than burglary.

MINI CRIME WAVE EXPERIENCED

PETERS CREEK: A mini-crime' wave was experienced by many of the residents in the vicinity of Mt. Eklutna Drive in Peters Creek last week.

Sometime last Thursday night over half a dozen bicycles were stolen from homes on Mt. Eklutna Drive and neighboring streets. While a number of the bicycles had been found hidden in the weeds at various points along the highway and other side roads, a number are still missing.

There have also been several reports of homes having been broken into and other acts of vandalism. The most extensive act of vandalism was experienced at the residence of George Ante on Pioneer Drive. While the family was away on a weekend outing, someone had thrown rocks through all the windows in the front of their house, including the basement windows.

The State Troopers were informed of the latter incident and are investigating. Mrs. Ante stated that they had not touched the rocks which had come through their window in order that the State Troopers might be able to test them for fingerprints.

OLD CHUGIAK: An Anchorage driver was cited for operating a car while under the influence of alcohol after he collided with another vehicle and then drove away, according to the Alaska State Troopers.

HOMES ARE SOUGHT FOR BOARDING STUDENTS

CHUGIAK: Residents of the Greater Chugiak Area are being asked again this year to open their homes to high school aged students from remote villages.

Last year there were two dozen boarding home students attending Chugiak High School, most of them 9th graders.

So far this year, homes have been found for only 19 students, according to Andy Kirk, Chugiak High Teacher in charge of the project at the local school.

Kirk said that this year the State Boarding Home Program hopes to place about 30 students in this area. These homes would be for both boys and girls in grades 9, 10 and 11.

It is felt that the best situations developed where several boarding home students stayed in the same house.

Kirk explained that the program provides $150.00 per student per month. This has proved to be ample, but on the other hand is not intended to be a money making deal.

According to Kirk last years boarding home parents felt it was a worthwhile experience and most of them are planning to do it again this year. Many of the students this year will probably come from Chevak where the school burned down last year.

Anyone interested in participating in the Boarding Home program is asked to call the coordinator at 277-8634 and a social worker will come and visit them. Also, anyone who would like to learn about last years program and what is planned for this year, may call Kirk at 688 2548 for information.

Advice vs. Guidance
 When you have a problem you usually do not have to look too far to find people who will be more than glad to give you their advice. They do not have to be experts or even know all the facts, yet they will tell you that you can not go wrong by listening to and following their advice. And even experts will give different views - some opposing the advice of another expert. Perhaps, this is where your problems lie. Our fellow men can only give advice, or an opinion that is presently in style. But advice is not enough; it is not the answer. Guidance and peace of mind must be sought, and they radiate with love and mercy from God, they are available to those who seek him. Worldliness creates its own system of values, truth, and free advice. Yet there is more to life than the things of this world; there are important spiritual values also to be sought. To truly solve our problems we must come for guidance to the source of all goodness - God.

Tell me - why?

By: Martha Council

Dear Martha,

Here is a problem that I bet many guys don't have. To start out with, a fellow has to be so careful with every girl he dates because they all seem to be looking for a husband. I have always been very honest with the girls I dated and let them know that I was interested in a good time but to rule me out as husband material.

Well to make a long story short, I met this girl that I have learned to care about very much. Of course I knew that someday I would meet her, and that when I did I would be ready to settle down and marry.

I had given her the same "I don't want to settle down line" that I give all the girls when I met her, and she said that was fine, she didn't want to settle down either. When I realized that I had fallen in love with her, I told her that I had changed my mind, and wanted her to be my wife.

Do you know what she said? "Lets not spoil a good relationship by getting married. Things are just fine the way they are."

Martha, I may have wanted to play house at first, but now I really dig this girl, and want a real home and family. How can I convince her that we were both wrong?

Tired of games

Dear Tired,

Your's is indeed an unusual story. I don't know how you can convince a girl who apparently took you at your word and intends to hold you to it.

I suggest that if she isn't ready for marriage, that you forget about it. The world is full of wonderful girls who are very anxious to settle down and make a home for you, just as there are hundreds of men who are looking for a girl like her who will play house but doesn't want the responsibility of being a wife.

In the future level with the girls. Let them know that when the right one comes along that you will be wanting to put a ring on her left hand.

That will eliminate any of the women's lib type like your current girlfriend.

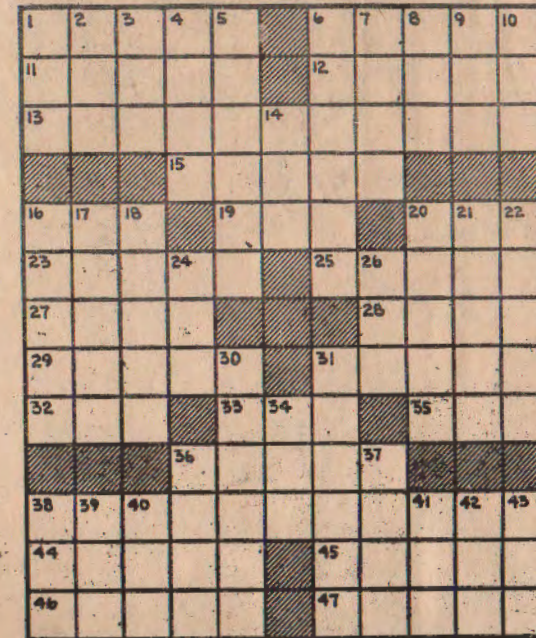

Sincerely,

Martha Council
